MINUTES OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

No. 1.

TUESDAY, 10TH SEPTEMBER, 1968.

1. The Council met pursuant to the Proclamation of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, bearing date the twenty-seventh day of August, 1968, which Proclamation was read by the Clerk and is as follows :—

PROROGUING PARLIAMENT AND FIXING THE TIME FOR HOLDING THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FORTY-FOURTH PARLIAMENT OF VICTORIA.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor of the State of Victoria and its Dependencies in the Commonwealth of Australia, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS the Parliament of Victoria stands adjourned until such day and hour as may be fixed by the President of the Legislative Council and the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly respectively : Now I, the Lieutenant-Governor of the State of Victoria, in the Commonwealth of Australia, do by this my Proclamation prorogue the said Parliament of Victoria until Tuesday, the tenth day of September, 1968, and I do hereby fix Tuesday, the tenth day of September, 1968, aforesaid, at the hour of half-past two o'clock in the afternoon, as the time for the commencement and holding of the next Session of the said Parliament of Victoria, for the despatch of business, in the Parliament Houses, situate in Spring-street, in the City of Melbourne : And the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Council and the Members of the Legislative Assembly are hereby required to give their attendance at the said time and place accordingly.

E. F. HERRING.

By His Excellency's command,

HENRY BOLTE,

Premier.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN !

2. APPROACH OF HIS EXCELLENCY THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.—The approach of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor was announced by the Usher of the Black Rod.

His Excellency came into the Council Chamber, and the Usher of the Black Rod was commanded to desire the immediate attendance of the Legislative Assembly, who being come with their Speaker, His Excellency was pleased to speak as follows :—

MR. PRESIDENT AND HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL :

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY :

I have summoned you to meet today for the despatch of public business.

The honour of opening this, the Second Session of the Forty-fourth Parliament of the State, has devolved upon me because of the absence on furlough of His Excellency the Governor.

We are delighted to know that Her Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to reappoint Sir Rohan Delacombe as her personal representative in Victoria for another three years. Let us pray that the Governor and Lady Delacombe will return greatly refreshed by their holiday, and that their next three years with us will be no less felicitous than those just past.

I believe it would be the wish of all that at this time we should express our profound sorrow over the recent death of Her Royal Highness The Princess Marina. Although Her Royal Highness had not personally visited this State, she, like her daughter Princess Alexandra, was well and affectionately known to us all. On behalf of the Government and the people of Victoria I have conveyed to Her Majesty the Queen and to the family of the late Princess our feelings of deep sorrow and sympathy.

This year we had the honour of welcoming to Victoria His Imperial Majesty Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia ; His Royal Highness, The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh ; and Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister of the Republic of India. These visits cemented further the goodwill between Victorians and the people of other lands, and enabled two of our distinguished guests to see for the first time our way of life.

When the last session of this Parliament ended, the whole State was in the grip of a drought devastating in its impact on country and city alike. By the grace of Almighty God, the drought was eased by soaking rains which started in May. These did much to relieve widespread hardship, and to enable ground to be sown to new crops. Parched pastures were revitalised. Catchments and dams were replenished. Depleted flocks and herds revived. Although fodder reserves are the lowest for many years, and good spring rains are still needed, I am advised that seasonal prospects are generally favourable. However, the State will need several years of good seasons and favourable markets to ensure complete recovery.

Victorian crops suffered badly during the drought. Wheat production from the last harvest was just over 29 million bushels—the lowest for 23 years—and only 2,800,000 bushels of barley were produced. The oat crop was only one-third of that of a normal year. I am advised that the new season's crops have made a good start. The total acreage sown to wheat is estimated to be about 10 to 15 per cent above that sown last year. The acreage sown to barley has increased even more.

Vigorous measures taken by the Government did much to mitigate the worst effects of the drought. When it became evident last spring that large quantities of feed for starving livestock could be needed, some millions of bushels of grain were retained in storages throughout the State, and subsequently made available to livestock owners.

As the drought continued, the Government was successful in obtaining from the Commonwealth special drought relief funds. The receipt of these moneys enabled the introduction of additional drought relief measures and the maintenance of those which the State had already initiated.

The supply of water for irrigation in Northern Victoria was maintained at a high level, and generally there was no significant loss of production in irrigation districts. The shortage of surface water highlighted the importance of underground water as an alternative source of supply. Personnel and drilling equipment were diverted from the long-term survey of the State's underground water resources to the urgent task of establishing emergency supplies of underground water at strategic points. By these means, dwindling water supplies were replenished and disaster was averted at several places in the State.

The drought created conditions conducive to severe wind erosion throughout north-western Victoria. However, the benefit of improved land-use and management methods employed since the last bad drought was clearly demonstrated by the fact that serious soil drift only occurred in places where those methods had not been adopted, or where landholders had been incautious in their grazing practices.

Notwithstanding the success of the measures which have been mentioned, the Government is determined to continue its efforts to protect the people of Victoria from the effects of future droughts.

Works now being constructed will give greater security to the Werribee and Bacchus Marsh Irrigation Districts, where severe water rationing was necessary. Emergency measures to supply the northern part of the Wimmera-Mallee stock and domestic water supply system from the Goulburn and Murray Rivers have been introduced.

Work on the ten-year dam construction programme is proceeding satisfactorily. The Nillahcootie Dam is now complete and, I am happy to say, full. The Corop Lakes Scheme is now fully operative. A new storage on Coimadai Creek is being built. As well as securing supplies to the Bacchus Marsh and Werribee Irrigation Districts, the waters of this storage will provide for future urban and industrial development in the area. The Tarago Reservoir, which will augment the supply of water to the Mornington Peninsula, including the Western Port industrial development, has been finished and is now filling.

Two major schemes for reducing salinity in the River Murray were carried out this year with funds provided by the Commonwealth Government. The diversion of the highly saline waters of Barr Creek, near Kerang, and Lake Hawthorn, near Mildura, to evaporating basins, will prevent some 50,000 tons of salt reaching the river each year.

A reservoir is to be built on the West Moorabool River, near Lal Lal, to supply water to Geelong and Ballarat, and to any other local Water Authorities which might be constituted in this area. The West Moorabool Water Board, which will build and manage this reservoir, has been appointed, and has begun preliminary planning.

By the 29th April Melbourne's water supply reserves had fallen to approximately 17,300 million gallons. Since then they have risen to nearly 50,000 million gallons, as compared with last year's post-winter peak of only 37,000 million gallons.

The programme of diverting into the metropolitan system the streams of the Upper Yarra Valley has been accelerated and enlarged. The recovery of the reservoirs has already been greatly assisted by the addition of the waters of McMahon's, Starvation and Cement Creeks and the Upper Thomson River. The waters of Armstrong's Creek will follow within a few days ; those of the Upper West Tanjil River will be added by the end of October.

The diversion of these streams increases Melbourne's Water Supply by more than 25 per cent in one year, and implements the first stage of the programme which was adopted following the report on this subject by the Public Works Committee. Later stages which have been approved include the diversion of additional water from the Thomson River, and the construction of a new storage of 60,000 million gallons capacity on Cardinia Creek to serve both the metropolis and the Mornington Peninsula.

The long dry summer created a situation of acute bush fire danger worse than any in living memory. Serious fires broke out at Winton, at Mudgegonga, at Officer and in the Dandenong Ranges. Thanks to the dedicated and tireless efforts of the fire-fighting services, the many thousands of volunteer firemen and the members of voluntary organizations which gave such splendid support, these fires were contained, brought under control, and finally put out, without loss of human life, and with comparatively little damage to property. These magnificent efforts are to be commended all the more when it is recalled that the fires in the Dandenongs were completely suppressed under weather conditions much worse than those of 1962, when there was such great damage to property in that area.

The demand for educational facilities at all levels is still increasing. To meet this demand, the Government is maintaining a high level of teacher recruitment and training, and pressing on with a vigorous building programme.

Fourteen institutions are now affiliated with the Victoria Institute of Colleges. Six others also receive government grants as Colleges of Advanced Education. The first degrees awarded by the Institute were recently issued to graduates of the College of Pharmacy. It is anticipated that other affiliated colleges will soon undertake courses of degree standard.

Provision for substantial expenditure to meet the needs of our rapidly growing University populations will again be made this financial year.

The Commonwealth-State legislation on Australia's offshore petroleum resources is now in full operation. This and related pipelines legislation are facilitating the rapid exploration and development of Victoria's large natural gas and oil resources. It is gratifying to note that headquarters for the production of oil and gas from the recent offshore discoveries will be decentralized to the Sale area.

As you are aware, estimated reserves of the order of 1,200 million barrels of oil have been announced. Later discoveries have been made which are yet to be evaluated. It is confidently expected that further discoveries will give still greater impetus to the development of Victoria.

Construction of the natural gas pipeline from Dutson to Melbourne is well in hand, and will be finished before March 1969, the scheduled date for gas to be available from the offshore wells.

Construction of further wharf facilities for shipping petroleum products originating from the Gippsland offshore oilfields is proceeding at Western Port. The completed installation will serve tankers of up to 100,000 tons dead-weight.

In the field of electricity production, Hazelwood has become the largest power station in Australia. By 1971 three additional generating sets will be added to the five now operating. Work is proceeding on the construction of Yallourn "W" Power Station which should come into operation in 1972.

Intensive investigations are continuing into the type of generating plant best suited to meet the State's future power requirements. The wide range of possible developments includes nuclear power generation and pumped storage hydro-electric schemes.

The programme of public building construction being actively maintained throughout the State includes public offices, hospitals, schools, teachers' colleges, court houses, youth training centres, a natural history museum, and a fish and wildlife research institute.

The art collections of the State are now housed in one of the finest buildings of its kind, the new National Gallery in St. Kilda Road, which was officially opened by the Premier on the 20th August. This occasion marked the completion of the first stage of the new Victorian Arts Centre. Planning of the second stage is proceeding.

Work is going ahead on the construction of the Strathmore By-Pass Road which will link the Tullamarine Freeway, the Calder Highway and Bell Street, Coburg, to complete the route to the new Melbourne Airport at Tullamarine. The extension of dual carriageways on the principal State Highways, and the construction of new bridges, which will continue this year, have done much to ease traffic congestion on these busy roads.

The demand for houses is still high. Nearly $25 million will be spent by the Housing Commission during the current financial year to meet a building programme of approximately 2,600 houses and flats. The Commission will continue to develop slum reclamation projects at North Melbourne, South Melbourne, Richmond, Carlton, Prahran, Fitzroy and Collingwood.

To provide for the expanded activities of the Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs expenditure was almost doubled in the past financial year, and there will be a further substantial provision this year.

In the twelve months ended 30th June, 1968, approximately 12,000 assisted British migrants in a wide range of occupational categories arrived in Victoria. The Reception Centre at Hawthorn which is now in full operation has provided transit accommodation for many of these migrants. Being conscious of the impetus to the economy which immigration provides, the State will continue to give strong support to the immigration programme.

The Government will establish a comprehensive service for the care, treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics and drug dependent persons. This will include an assessment centre with an expert staff to examine persons on admission, to provide advice, and to plan the most appropriate form of professional care for ailments induced by alcoholism and drug addiction. Additional services will include rehabilitation centres for alcoholics and a treatment centre for infirm alcoholics and drug addicts.

During the last twelve months, this State has witnessed a few disorderly demonstrations by small but vocal minorities which have not hesitated to use force to support their aims. My advisers view such demonstrations with grave concern.

In the tradition of the Mother of Parliaments, this Parliament has always championed the right of the individual to freedom of speech and assembly, and I trust it always will. Indeed, the Parliament provides the very forum in which the legitimate presentation of the many and diverse viewpoints of the people finds its highest form of expression.

In accordance with the democratic principles for which Parliament stands, the Government does not oppose orderly demonstrations aimed at expressing a viewpoint genuinely held by the parties concerned. It requires only that it be given prior notice of such demonstrations and that the demonstrators observe the ordinary, every-day requirements of law and order designed for the protection of the lives and property of the people of this State.

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY :

Detailed Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the financial year 1968-69 will be presented to you, together with a Supply Bill to make further provision for the services of the year 1968-69.

Supplementary Estimates for the year 1967-68 will be submitted to you.

MR. PRESIDENT AND HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL :

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY :

The legislative programme which will be submitted to you will include a Bill to bring together all the existing law of the Constitution in a modernized form.

Legislation to abolish bailiwicks and to vest in the County Court the jurisdiction at present exercised in criminal matters by Courts of General Sessions will also be presented. This is designed to simplify the structure and procedure of our Courts.

The complete review of the Justices Act begun in 1966 is continuing. Legislation to bring about further significant amendments of the Act is expected to be brought in during the new Session.

The whole question of exemption from municipal rating is being considered by the Government following the report of the Statute Law Revision Committee on the subject. It is believed that specific proposals now being drawn up for submission to Parliament represent a more logical approach to the question than the current provisions which are not appropriate to modern conditions. The proposals will be included in a Bill to revise Parts X and XI of the Local Government Act, which will be the second step towards the intended complete revision of the Act.

The Bill relating to alcoholics and drug dependent persons will be reintroduced after being revised in the light of comments and criticism received during the recess.

Bills to deal with methods of obtaining material for the transplanting of human organs, and with the regulation of the dental profession will be presented.

The Government also intends to submit legislation to promote the exploration for underground water in Victoria and to regulate its use ; to restrict and control the use of secret listening devices ; and to amend and re-enact the Fences Act 1958.

Other Bills to be submitted to Parliament will deal with :—

- Compensation for citizens injured while assisting the Police ;
- Local Authorities Superannuation ;
- Water and Sewerage ; and
- Closing of the State Coal Mine.

Since the beginning of the last session, this Parliament and Victoria have suffered grievous loss in the deaths of the Honorable Sir Ronald William Mack and Mr. Harold Victor Stirling. The late Sir Ronald Mack served as a Minister of the Crown and, at the time of his death, was President of the Legislative Council. Mr. Stirling rendered valuable service to Victoria for many years as a member of the Legislative Assembly.

I share with Honorable Members deep regret in the loss of these distinguished members and in the death of the late Mr. George Gibbs, a former member of the Legislative Assembly whose services to the State are well known to all of us.

In formally opening this Parliament, I pray that Almighty God will guide your thoughts and actions in discharging the trust reposed in you by the people of this State.

E. F. HERRING,

Lieutenant-Governor of Victoria.

Melbourne, 10th September, 1968.

No. 41.

THURSDAY, 1ST MAY, 1969.

1. The President took the Chair and read the Prayer.

2. COMPLAINT—ARTICLE IN The Sun News-Pictorial NEWSPAPER.—

The time appointed for the attendance of Douglas Wilkie and Henry Alfred Gordon having arrived, the Usher of the Black Rod announced that Douglas Wilkie and Henry Alfred Gordon were in attendance.

Douglas Wilkie and Henry Alfred Gordon were then called in and, having appeared at the Bar of the House, were examined as follows :—

MR. PRESIDENT.—Are you Douglas Wilkie ?—Yes, Mr. President.

Are you Henry Alfred Gordon ?—Yes, Mr. President.

The President then directed the Acting-Clerk to proceed to the Bar to exhibit the newspaper and article complained of to Messrs. Wilkie and Gordon.

MR. PRESIDENT.—At this juncture I should like to advise that yesterday the article concerned and a letter from the Secretary for Lands were read to this House. Now I shall address several questions to both of you.

Is this the newspaper of which you, Mr. Gordon, are and on 23rd April, 1969, were the Editor ?—Yes, Mr. President.

Is this the newspaper by which you, Mr. Wilkie, are and on 23rd April, 1969, were employed as a journalist ?—Yes, Mr. President.

Are you, Mr. Wilkie, the author of the article “Up the Gardens Path” now produced for your inspection ?—Yes, Mr. President.

Do you, Mr. Gordon, accept responsibility for the publication of the article of which Mr. Wilkie admits authorship ?—Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. Wilkie, were you present at the hearing at any time ?—Of the Parliamentary Committee ?

Of the Parliamentary Committee.—No, I was not, Mr. President.

Did you have access to any transcript of evidence ?—I did not see any transcript of evidence, no.

Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon, each of you having been commanded to appear at the Bar of this House to make explanation to the House in answer to a complaint of a breach of the privileges of Parliament, I now ask you, Mr. Wilkie : Do you have any explanation to offer ?—Mr. President, I would rather leave the explanation of the principles of a free press and freedom of expression in the better hands of my editor, who will presumably be allowed to speak later. Perhaps as the author of the article I should deal more with the particularities of what I said, with special reference to the charge against me and what exercised my mind at the time of the alleged offence. I think in the charge I am held to have insulted one of the witnesses before the Committee, Mr. Pescott, and possibly Mr. Serpell. Far from having any intent at that time to insult Mr. Pescott or Mr. Serpell, I was in fact so far as I was able to construe the position paying them a compliment. If the compliment was mistakenly construed by them or by anyone else as an insult or even as a back-handed compliment, I can only plead what I regarded as the very rational and reasonable thoughts that governed the way I approached the whole subject. It was in my mind that the hearing before the Select Committee touched on an issue of great public controversy which was not only being waged within the committee but was being referred to in the press, in letter columns of the press and even in the Parliament, also that the evidence before the Committee was not necessarily being taken as sworn evidence, was not subject to the usual rules of cross-examination and bore in no way any relation to what is normally considered a judicial court. Then looking at the evidence that was given before this Committee I was only referring to Mr. Serpell and Mr. Pescott as sort of passing figures in the whole drama of this discussion, this rather petty drama perhaps, of what was happening about a new restaurant in the Botanic Gardens. It then exercised my mind that a public servant, if he is a loyal public servant, recognizes that his first duty—this is so far as it passed through my mind—is to advise his Minister. His second duty, whether or not his Minister takes his advice, is to administer the policy that has been decided upon by the Minister. Further than that in any public statement he is under a loyal obligation to advocate, even to defend, his Minister's policy. That is not necessarily going to force him into any lack of integrity when he is expressing his views, but his views are going to be coloured. They are going to be constricted by what he rightly regards as loyalty to his Minister and to his Government. It then occurred to me that in this evidence before the Parliamentary Committee Mr. Pescott as a loyal servant, even if his policy had been accepted by his Minister or even if it had been rejected or even if Mr. Pescott himself had possibly been to some extent influenced or forced to moderate some of his views by the public outcry which was voiced on certain aspects of the Government's policy, was not in a position to say anything at the inquiry or certainly not to volunteer anything which could put him in the position of being disloyal to his Government's policy. To that extent, although it seemed so obvious to me, I felt it might not be so obvious to members of the public reading the evidence before the Committee. So I felt that it was a public duty of a newspaper, and of me so far as I am a small instrument of a newspaper, to evaluate the evidence, not insultingly or maliciously but merely as the necessarily loyal constricted evidence of a public servant carrying out loyally and dutifully his Government's policy. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT.—Mr. Gordon, do you have any explanation to offer ?—Yes, Mr. President. I should like, before I start, to point out that we are both here as a result of proceedings which took place in this Chamber only yesterday afternoon. We were telephoned at 4 o'clock by the Usher of the Black Rod and in fact took delivery of the relevant sub poenas only 15 or 25 minutes ago. As I understand the situation, we have no opportunity for legal counsel and I do want to say that I do not think the notice given is adequate. I read the article complained of before its publication. I considered it to be fair and reasonable and responsible comment on a matter of considerable public interest. It was certainly published in good faith. I should like to say that Mr. Wilkie is an eminent journalist with a large reputation for integrity and objectivity. He has written for many years on overseas and local events of importance. In this case I considered that his main theme was refreshingly sane. He suggested that the issue was not whether visitors to the Botanic Gardens should have access to a new restaurant but whether the catering at the present kiosk might be improved. I did not consider the reference to Mr. Pescott to be a criticism of his integrity. I considered that it suggested that Mr. Pescott as a senior public servant had been party to the discussions which preceded the decision to build a restaurant and that therefore he was committed to defend the Government's proposals. I did not see the sentence apparently complained of as a personal attack on Mr. Pescott but simply as a comment on a situation in which a senior public servant is called to give evidence on a matter in which he is already committed because of his very role as a senior public servant. The reference to Mr. Serpell simply repeated the suggestion that a witness before the Select Committee was already committed to a certain course of action because he had been a party to the discussions which had preceded that decision. The difficulty which must face a senior public servant in this situation was underlined by Sir Henry Bolte in a speech in the Legislative Assembly on 12th March last year when he said of these officials—I quote—"Their duty is to serve the Government of the day irrespective of party with complete loyalty and impartiality". On the day after Mr. Wilkie's article was published, I was advised that the Minister of Lands had attacked it as scurrilous and premeditated. I directed, as Editor of the Sun, that this speech, which was, in effect, a very strong attack on the Sun and the article concerned, should be reported fully. I did this simply to ensure that the matter was given fair treatment. I have noted Mr. Galbally's comment that had the remarks concerned been made while a matter was proceeding in a court this would have been dealt with as contempt of court. If it had been a court case we would certainly not have published an article commenting in this or any other fashion on the proceedings, but it was not. The inquiry could not have been construed as having the same legal status as a court case. Some degree of public debate and even Parliamentary debate continued throughout the sitting of the Select Committee and letters were published by all of the newspapers giving both sides of the argument. This would certainly not have happened during a court case. As a newspaper editor, I am constantly on my guard against the possibility of contempt both of courts and of Parliament. I want to say that I would never willingly be held in contempt or commit any contempt of this House or of any other House of Parliament or of a court. I also want to say that I do not consider that this article constituted contempt, and I submit that if it were considered to be contemptuous that ruling would go further than any previous ruling. In summing up, I should like to repeat these main points: I consider the article to be fair and reasonable comment on a matter of public interest. I did not and still do not believe that it constituted any breach of privilege. The article was published in good faith and totally without malice. Finally, there is no intention to impugn Mr. Pescott's or Mr. Serpell's character in any way at all. Thank you, Mr. President.

The President commanded the Usher of the Black Rod to escort Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon from the Chamber, and Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon having withdrawn—

The Honorable J. W. Galbally moved, That this House is of opinion that the article appearing in The Sun News-Pictorial newspaper dated the 23rd April, 1969, written by Douglas Wilkie and entitled "Up the Gardens Path" constitutes an insult to a witness appearing before a Select Committee of this House of Parliament, which motion was seconded by the Honorable G. L. Chandler.

Question—put and resolved in the affirmative.

The Honorable J. W. Galbally moved, That Douglas Wilkie having admitted that he is the author of the article and Henry Alfred Gordon having admitted he is the editor of the newspaper in which it was published have each been guilty of a breach of the privileges of this House, which motion was seconded by the Honorable G. L. Chandler.

Question—put and resolved in the affirmative.

The Honorable J. W. Galbally moved, That Douglas Wilkie and Henry Alfred Gordon, for their respective offences, be summoned to the Bar of the House to be reprimanded by Mr. President and discharged, which motion was seconded by the Honorable G. L. Chandler.

Question—put and resolved in the affirmative.

The President commanded the Usher of the Black Rod to again summon Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon to the Bar of the House, and Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon having again been brought to the Bar, the President addressed them as follows:—

MR. PRESIDENT.—Henry Alfred Gordon and Douglas Wilkie, the Legislative Council has deliberated and has adopted three resolutions. I will ask the Acting-Clerk to now read these resolutions to you.

The Acting-Clerk read the resolutions.

MR. PRESIDENT.—By unanimous vote of the House it is considered that the article constitutes an insult to a witness before a Select Committee of this House and is therefore a breach of Parliamentary privilege.

It is now my unpleasant duty to say to you, Douglas Wilkie, that your comment about a witness before a Select Committee of this Honorable House was a cowardly attack which the person concerned is in no position to refute publicly and, the witness being entitled to the protection of the Council in respect of his appearance before the Committee, I say to you in the strongest possible terms that the reprimand recorded in the Journals of this House is richly deserved.

You, Henry Alfred Gordon, are also reprimanded by this House of Parliament. Your acquiescence in the attack by Douglas Wilkie on the witness deserves strong condemnation, and the Journals of the House will record your offence and penalty.

Mr. Wilkie and Mr. Gordon were then escorted from the Chamber by the Usher of the Black Rod.

1.2. The Committee has, in addition to receiving evidence, inspected the town drainage system at Seymour, visited industrial undertakings at Altona, Richmond and Fairfield, and undertaken inspections of sections of the River Yarra and the Maribyrnong River within the metropolitan area.

1.3. During the period from the 10th to the 14th June, the Committee visited Queensland and inspected drainage and flood protection works and urban development within the Brisbane City Area and the land drainage and reclamation project at Woongoolba.

1.4. Whilst in Brisbane, the Committee conferred with officers of the Brisbane City Council, the Irrigation and Water Supply Commission, the Department of Local Government and the Civil Engineering Department of the University of Queensland, on the role of Queensland Authorities in drainage provision, flood protection and water pollution control.

SCOPE OF REPORT.

2.1. On the 15th March, 1967, the previous Joint Select Committee on Drainage reported on the evidence received prior to the close of the 43rd Parliament and indicated the lines of investigation which it considered should be followed by its successor to enable questions posed by the Terms of Reference to be successfully answered.

2.2. The former Committee in its Report <sup>(1)</sup> commented on the evidence received relating to the possible dangers to the public health from the discharge to drains and streams of waste matter and on the types of such wastes at present being discharged.

2.3. From the evidence obtained since the appointment of your present Committee it is considered that the questions posed by Term of Reference (e) can be resolved and reported upon prior to the finalization of the Inquiry and, therefore, your Committee has endeavoured to answer this Term of Reference in this Report.

2.4. Term of Reference (e) asks—

“whether any and what provision should be made in respect of the discharge of domestic sullage, septic tank effluents and trade wastes to drains under the control of a municipality, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, the Dandenong Valley Authority, the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission or a drainage trust constituted under the River Improvement Act 1958.”

2.5. It became apparent to the Committee that in determining the conditions that should apply to the discharge of domestic sullage, septic tank effluent and trade wastes, consideration should be given to controls exercised over the discharge of other polluting substances, the effects on present and future use of water and wildlife conservation, and environmental changes likely to occur due to pollution of coastal and inland waters.

2.6. Evidence relating to water pollution and its control has been received from Authorities directly concerned with public health, water supply, drainage, and fisheries and wildlife conservation.

The Committee has, in addition, sought up to date information on practices adopted in other States and overseas regarding the operation of water pollution controls.

2.7. In order to acquaint itself with practical aspects of disposing of water-borne wastes, the Committee has—

- (a) inspected waste treatment facilities operated by Altona Petro-chemical Co. Pty. Ltd., Australian Synthetic Rubber Co. Limited, and Australian Paper Manufacturers Pty. Ltd., and discussed with company officials problems relating to the treatment of industrial wastes ;
- (b) inspected sections of the River Yarra and Maribyrnong River within the metropolitan area where such Rivers adjoined high density industrial areas ;
- (c) inspected the plant operations of industries established at Richmond ;
- (d) observed the operation of sewage treatment plants at Seymour and Puckapunyal Military Camp ; and
- (e) inspected drainage outlets to the River Murray within the Swan Hill Irrigation Area and the land reclamation project conducted at the Kerang Agricultural Research Farm.

2.8. In considering and reporting on matters outside of the scope of Term of Reference (e), the Committee has invoked the application of Term of Reference (j) which enables it to consider and report upon any other matters which appear relevant to the Inquiry.

2.9. In reporting on Terms of Reference (e) and (j) the Committee has attempted to answer the questions posed having regard to the overall effects of water pollution on the community and the desirability of Authorities adopting a uniform approach in minimizing the effects of water pollution and in controlling the sources of such pollution.

DEFINITIONS.

3.1. For the purpose of this Report the Committee has adopted the following terms :—

- “Coastal waters” includes ports and harbors and any bay, estuary or other inlet of the sea.
- “Domestic Sullage” means any waste water or matter resulting from the domestic requirements of food preparation or personal or household cleansing which is discharged from a dwelling-house, but does not include wastes from closets or urinals or wastes resulting from the operation of commercial or industrial processes.

“Inland waters” includes any river, creek, stream, watercourse, lake, lagoon, swamp, marsh, or channel used for the supply of water, whether or not such river, creek, stream, watercourse, lake, lagoon, swamp, marsh, or channel contains water at any particular time.

“Trade waste” means any liquid or solid matter resulting from any commercial, trade or industrial operation or process.

3.2. In order to avoid unnecessary repetition, abbreviated forms have been used to describe or identify Authorities.

POLLUTION OF WATER.

4.1. The introduction to the Report entitled “Restoring the Quality of our Environment”, compiled in the United States of America by the Environmental Pollution Panel of the President’s Science Advisory Committee, states—

“The production of pollutants and an increasing need for pollution management are an inevitable concomitant of a technological society with a high standard of living. Pollution problems will increase in importance as our technology and standard of living continue to grow.”

Although the problem of waste disposal to streams is not so acute in this country, due to the general use of separate systems for the disposal of stormwater and other water-borne wastes, your Committee considers that these observations are applicable to this State and that adequate water pollution controls will become even more important in the future development of Victoria.

4.2. A Report of the World Health Organization <sup>(1)</sup> classifies types of water pollution as follows :—

(a) pollution by bacteria, viruses and other organisms that can cause disease;

(b) pollution by decomposable organic matter, which, by absorbing the oxygen in the water, kills fish, produces offensive smells and gives rise to general unsightliness; such pollution, if not excessive, is largely destroyed in due course, and the river becomes wholesome again;

(c) pollution by inorganic salts, the characteristic of which is that they cannot be removed by any simple conventional treatment process; they may make the water quite unsuitable for drinking, for irrigation and for many industries;

(d) pollution by plant nutrients—potash, phosphates, nitrates, etc.—which are also largely inorganic salts but which have the added property of increasing weed growth, promoting algal “blooms” and producing, by photosynthesis, organic matter that may settle on the bottom of a lake;

(e) pollution by oily materials, which may be inimical to fish life, cause unsightliness, screen the river surface from the air thus reducing reoxygenation, accumulate in troublesome quantities in suitable circumstances, and have a high oxygen demand;

(f) pollution by specific toxic agents, ranging from metal salts to complex synthetic chemicals.

Also worthy of mention are: waste heat, which can be considered a pollutant in the sense that it renders the river less suitable for certain purposes; silt, which can be washed into the river in very large quantities, causing changes in the character of the river bed; and radioactive substances.”

4.3. The dangers and undesirable features of water pollution and the anticipated further deterioration in the quality of water for all users within Victoria, were adverted to by a number of witnesses.

The problems arising from inadequately controlled sources of water pollution are considered to be—

(a) the reduction in the amount of usable water available for community and individual requirements ;

(b) the potential hazard of communicable disease transmission where untreated water is used for human consumption ;

(c) the psychological effects on the community resulting from an offensive environment ;

(d) the alteration and destruction of fish habitat and mortality of fish in streams, estuaries and coastal waters and the consequent loss of a valuable recreational facility and commercial resource ;

(e) the reduction of waterways and flood prone land capable of being used for recreational purposes ; and

(f) the loss of efficiency of natural and artificial drainage systems due to—

(i) erosion, where discharge rates and velocities exceed the natural capacity of the drain or stream ;

(ii) the failure of concrete lined or concrete pipe drains due to chemical reaction with wastes resulting in the diversion of substantial capital for replacement of drains ;

(iii) the obstruction of drains and streams caused through accumulation of solid wastes or by accelerated weed growth thereby resulting in upstream flooding and increased maintenance costs.

EFFECTS OF WATER POLLUTION.

5.1. The Committee was referred to numerous instances of pollution occurring in inland and coastal waters and in drains under the control of Authorities.

5.2. The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch reported that widespread fish kills have taken place in Port Phillip Bay in the vicinity of a drain which enters the Bay at Brighton. Material discharging from this drain was identified as containing iron and chromium but the Branch was unable to trace the source from which the wastes originated.

5.3. Particular concern was expressed by the Branch over the increasing development and use of pesticides and the resultant contamination of waters by these substances. Many of these compounds are considered to be extremely toxic to fish and fish foods.

5.4. The Committee was advised that a massive fish kill occurred in the Watts River at Healesville in 1966, which was subsequently proved to have been caused by surface run-off from potato and vegetable gardens where DDT and Endrin were used for insect and pest control.

5.5. Reference was made to the process of biological magnification wherein succeeding members of a food chain (predator type fish or fish eating birds) contain increasing quantities of pesticide. Although there is no record in Australia of severe mortality from an accumulation of residues in this way, several occurrences of this type have been recorded in North America.

5.6. The Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board advised the Committee that on one occasion in 1966, the oxygen content of the water of the Macalister River at one sample point had been reduced to zero for a period of 48 hours, and had resulted in a complete fish kill within the area. The pollution was considered to have been caused by discharges of wastes from dairy product factories and other industries, and the effect of these discharges on the River was magnified due to the low flow of the River at the time.

5.7. The Committee inspected with officers of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works the Board's drainage system to observe the effects of polluting materials being discharged to drainage systems.

The Committee was shown many instances of damage to concrete drains and structures due to the action of corrosive wastes and several cases where colloidal matter or undissolved solids had collected in drains and waterways creating offensive conditions and obstructions to water flow.

5.8. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission stated that certain country town water supplies had contained coliform bacteria in the reticulation systems even after purification processes which had included chlorination. The Commission considered that there is always a danger that faulty treatment or mismanagement will fail to adequately remove dangerous organisms from town water supplies and that it is necessary to keep the sources of such water free from heavy contamination as an additional safeguard.

5.9. Representatives of the Swan Hill and District Irrigators League submitted that the waters of the River Murray used for irrigation supply were being polluted to an increasing extent by saline water discharged to the River through drainage systems. Witnesses claimed that crop losses had been due in part to the supply of irrigation water containing a high salt content and who also stated that watering of crops had been suspended on occasions due to salinity levels of waters available for irrigation.

It was considered by witnesses that with the development of irrigation areas and the increase in land drainage the quality of water available for irrigation will deteriorate further.

STATUTORY CONTROLS OF WATER POLLUTION.

6.1. The following Acts either include specific provisions or contain regulatory powers relating to the control, obligations and responsibilities of persons and Authorities in preventing or minimizing water pollution :—

6.2. Section 31 provides that the Authority may, within its area, apply the powers of any Act, regulation or by-law relating to river pollution and appoint inspectors for the administration of such provisions.

6.3. Section 45 enables by-laws to be made to prevent or minimize the pollution of any river lake or drain and to impose maximum penalties of $100 for any offence under such by-laws or $20 daily in the case of a continuing offence.

No by-law for this purpose has been made to date.

Fisheries Act 1958.

6.4. Section 48 provides that no person shall cause or knowingly permit the discharge of solid or liquid matter so as to cause any waters to be poisonous or injurious to fish or oysters or to the food of fish or oysters and provides a penalty of up to $100 or imprisonment for an offender.

6.5. Section 52 gives an authorized officer the right of entry to premises but the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch considered these powers did not relate directly to prevention of pollution.

6.6. Part III. of the Act requires a municipal council to maintain its district in a clean and sanitary condition and provides power for the council to enforce the abatement of any nuisance which has caused any drain, ditch, gutter, or watercourse to become dangerous to health or offensive.

6.7. In Part IV.—

- (a) Division 1 imposes requirements designed to prevent offensive conditions or conditions dangerous to public health arising from pollution of inland waters by night soil or garbage.
- (b) Division 2 enables the control of the installation and siting of septic tank systems.
- (c) Division 4 enables the Commission of Public Health to remedy any offence or foul condition in a river, creek, stream, watercourse or open ditch or channel. These provisions however do not apply to rivers, creeks, and watercourses under the control of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works.
- (d) Division 6 enables the Commission of Public Health or a council to take action to prevent pollution and to close sources of water supply where the water becomes unwholesome. Section 82 requires certain industries to obtain the approval of the Commission of Public Health where wastes are discharged to sources of water supply or to certain inland waters.
- (e) Division 8 enables the Governor-in-Council to make regulations relating to the prevention and abatement of pollution and for remedying the condition of inland waters.

6.8. Part V. provides for the control of the establishment and operation of offensive or dangerous trades and cattle sale yards.

6.9. Section 133 provides that for the purpose of preventing or limiting infectious disease, the Commission of Public Health may, where the Minister sees fit, forbid the discharge of any matter into any source of water supply or inland waters which is detrimental or likely to become detrimental to public health.

6.10. Part XVI. prohibits the establishment or extension of certain trades likely to pollute the River Yarra above the City of Melbourne and provides penalties for non-compliance.

6.11. Section 388 makes it an offence for any person to carry out works otherwise than in accordance with any approval granted by the Commission of Public Health.

6.12. Section 400 enables an authorized officer of the Commission of Public Health or of a council to enter and inspect premises to enable enforcement of provisions of the Act.

Latrobe Valley Act 1958.

6.13. The provisions of this Act vest the powers of control of stream pollution for the Latrobe River and its tributaries in the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board. The following sections provide the powers of control :—

- (a) Section 15 lists certain solids and liquids that are included in the definition of "Industrial and domestic waste" and brings within such definition any other matter that the Board by by-law declares to be waste ;
- (b) Section 55 requires a person establishing or altering any undertaking likely to produce wastes which may enter the Latrobe River to submit details of the quality and quantity of wastes likely to be produced and of proposed treatment methods to be adopted ;
- (c) Section 56 enables the Board to enter premises and inspect and take samples of waste and to generally police its pollution control powers ;
- (d) Sections 57 and 59 provide penalties where wastes are discharged in contravention of pollution by-laws ;
- (e) Section 65 empowers the Board, with the consent of the Governor in Council, to make by-laws for preventing or regulating the discharge of waste into the Latrobe River.

Provision is also made under this section to enable an agreement to be entered into between an industry and the Board to vary the conditions imposed by by-law in the discharge of wastes.

Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958.

6.14. The following provisions of the Act were cited by the Board as measures available for the control of the pollution of rivers creeks and watercourses under its jurisdiction :—

- (a) Section 130 gives the Board power to prosecute a person who wilfully pollutes a stormwater channel or drain but does not apply to municipal drains ;
- (b) Section 150 gives the Board power to prosecute a person who wilfully pollutes a public river, creek or watercourse and also applies to rivers, creeks and watercourses listed in the Twelfth Schedule of the Act by virtue of section 284 (2) ;
- (c) Section 151 provides that a person who causes damage to drains or sewers shall be liable to a penalty and shall also pay the costs of repairing or making good such sewer, drain or other works ;
- (d) Section 278 (1) (b) enables the making of by-laws to prevent or minimize the pollution of rivers, creeks, watercourses, main drains or main drainage works. The powers of this section were extended in 1959 to encompass main drains and main drainage works but the provisions of the existing by-law have not been so extended to date ;
- (e) Section 278 (1) (e) empowers the Board to make by-laws for the prevention of injury to rivers, creeks, watercourses, main drains or main drainage works and provides a penalty of $40, and in the case of a continuing offence $10 per day, where a conviction is obtained for causing interference with the flow of water or injury to structures or works.
- (f) Section 290 enables a person authorized by the Board to enter and inspect premises to enforce compliance with provisions.

Navigable Waters (Oil Pollution) Act 1960.

6.15. Section 6 provides that a person shall be guilty of an offence if oil is discharged into the sea lying within the territorial limits or within the ports or navigable waters of the State of Victoria.

Section 8 allows an Authority to take action to remedy the pollution caused by the discharge of oil.

River Improvement Act 1958.

6.16. Section 55 of the River Improvement Act 1958 enables Authorities constituted under this Act to make by-laws for preventing or minimizing the pollution of any river, creek, watercourse or storage thereon, or lake.

A penalty of $40 and $4 per day for a continuing offence is provided for the contravention of any by-law.

Sewerage Districts Act 1958.

6.17. Section 155 provides penalties of $100 for a first offence, $500 for subsequent offences, and $40 per day for a continuing offence where a person wilfully throws or allows certain matter to enter any river, creek, watercourse, stormwater channel, drain, or sewer within the sewerage district of the Authority.

Water Act 1958.

6.18. Section 10 makes it an offence for any person to cause or permit the water of any sink, sewer, or drain, or other filthy or other deleterious water belonging to him or under his control, to be brought into any river creek water course lake lagoon swamp or marsh and section 11 provides power for the Commission to enter upon land to prevent pollution or to preserve the quality of water under its control.

6.19. Division 4 of Part V. provides penalties for the pollution of sources of water supply under the control of water supply Authorities.

6.20. Section 332 enables an Authority under the Act to make by-laws to prevent or remedy the " fouling or contamination of water contained in or supplied from any part of the works "

6.21. Section 379 provides penalties for the pollution of water in drains under the control of the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission.

STANDARDS FOR DISCHARGE OF POLLUTING MATTER.

7.1. With regard to statutory provisions listed in the previous section, no definition of pollution is incorporated in those provisions.

Witnesses expressed the view that if broad definitions of pollution are used in administering pollution controls, difficulties are encountered by Authorities and such definitions are subject to considerable legal argument.

7.2. In the World Health Organization survey of existing legislation on the control of water pollution,<sup>(1)</sup> the problem of defining water pollution was referred to—

“According to Malakoff,<sup>(2)</sup> ‘The meaning of the concept of ‘water pollution’ is very important since it generally is the starting point for the enactment of any water pollution control legislation and for the further promulgation of regulations, orders and decrees to implement the legislation. It is also the focal point for those who must comply with the legal provisions and for the administrative and judicial authorities who must enforce them . . .’ Nevertheless, he adds that . . . ‘A possible argument in favor of a no-definition of water pollution approach, is the difficulty in defining such a concept, as evidenced by the lack of uniformity among definitions adopted by various national legislative systems and among those advanced by international conferences and publicists. Perhaps an inadequate definition may prove to be of greater harm than not having one at all.’ In fact, no definition of the term ‘water pollution’ is given anywhere in the legislation of the United Kingdom, though a number of activities have been held by the courts to constitute pollution under the common law.”

7.3. The Stream Pollution Regulations 1943 made under the Health Acts apply to most inland waters in the State. These regulations which are used as a pollution standard for the application of many statutory controls over water have not been altered since their inception.

7.4. The Committee was advised that the regulations were designed primarily to protect public health and wildlife and prevent objectionable and dangerous conditions arising in domestic water supplies. However, witnesses generally criticized the present-day value of such regulations as a guide for pollution standards.

7.5. It was considered that the regulations were inadequate because—

- (a) no limits are prescribed for the quantity of wastes that may be discharged provided that the standard of effluent conforms to the stated requirements ;
- (b) the standards are not designed to allow for increased industrial activity and the consequent increase in the volume and number of waste discharges ;
- (c) the standards do not extend to the discharge of wastes which may increase the temperature of receiving waters ;
- (d) no clear power exists to control discharges of polluting material into drains which ultimately discharge to streams ;
- (e) no account is taken of the rise or fall in the level or flow of the receiving waters or the consequent ability of the receiving waters to absorb discharges of wastes; and
- (f) the regulations were not designed to enable proper control of water quality for agricultural purposes particularly in relation to the discharge of saline waters and the use of pesticides.

7.6. By-law No. 2, made in 1961 under the provisions of the Latrobe Valley Act 1958, cites matter which is deemed to be waste and is used as a guide by the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board in administering pollution controls of the Latrobe River and tributaries. It was considered by the Board that the standards prescribed by the by-law were virtually unrelated to the flow in rivers and streams. The Board stated that it had never prosecuted under the terms of the by-law because of doubts on its legal validity, but uses the standards as a yardstick for discussion and for seeking the co-operation of persons or bodies to meet these standards.

7.7. The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch considered that in relation to trade wastes the standards under the Latrobe Valley Act 1958 are more rigorous than those established under the Stream Pollution Regulations 1943.

7.8. As the Stream Pollution Regulations do not apply to watercourses under the control of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, the Board formulated tentative standards to be used as a guide to quality of trade wastes to be discharged to watercourses under its control.

Varying standards were fixed depending on the size of flow of water in the watercourse. The Board advised that, although these tentative standards had been used as a guide in administering the control of trade waste discharges since 1959, the standards have no statutory basis or force in law.

DEFICIENCIES IN PRESENT STATUTORY CONTROLS.

8.1. The Committee was advised that many of the statutory provisions were ineffective or difficult to apply due to inadequate standards set for discharge of wastes, imprecise meanings of such provisions and the unco-ordinated actions of Authorities administering health, water supply, drainage, local government and wildlife conservation provisions.

8.2. The difficulty of controlling water pollution under existing legislation was adverted to by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works. Section 269 of the Board's Act entitles municipal councils to connect surface water drains under the control of such council to main drains vested in the Board. In the event of polluting wastes being discharged to council drains it would appear that the Board has little or no control over the source of polluting matter entering its drainage system.

8.3. In any action for a breach of section 130 or 150 of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958 it is necessary to establish that the defendant acted wilfully. It was claimed that the normal defence of a factory operator is that the discharge was accidental and that the management is doing everything reasonable to prevent a recurrence.

8.4. The provisions of section 48 of the Fisheries Act 1958 have remained virtually unchanged for over 50 years and the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch submitted that, although the section may have been effective in the past, the following weaknesses were now evident:—

- (a) Convictions may be difficult to obtain if offenders claim that the discharge is not toxic to fish due to the absence of fish in a polluted stream.
- (b) No standards relating to toxicity are defined which are acceptable as evidence; therefore, to prosecute successfully, it is necessary to demonstrate the effects on fish.
- (c) Many discharges are difficult to characterize due to new industrial processes and are not covered by adopted waste quality standards.

8.5. The Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board considered that doubt existed as to its powers to control wastes or polluted matter discharged to other than its own works or directly to the river or its tributaries and advised that in the event of pollution of watercourses as a result of matter emanating from council drains, the Board would normally approach the council and seek its co-operation in preventing such pollution.

8.6. It was considered by witnesses that the provisions imposing conditions on the discharge of trade wastes to inland waters as prescribed by Division 6 of Part IV. of the Health Act 1958 were inadequate because—

- (a) control did not extend to channels and drains which ultimately discharge to inland waters;
- (b) authorities controlling inland waters were restricted to taking action after pollution had occurred;
- (c) industries established prior to 1954 were exempt from the requirements of section 82;
- (d) the effect of the present application of section 82 in the control of trade wastes was related almost entirely to matters directly affecting public health and was not effective in combating other serious conditions arising in drains and streams.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN WATER POLLUTION CONTROLS.

9.1. The Committee was referred by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works to a report, made to the Honorable the Minister of Health in 1946, on measures needed for the better protection from pollution of rivers, streams and lakes.

9.2. The report was compiled by an expert Committee comprising representatives of the Department of Health, State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, Fisheries and Game Department, Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, and Provincial Sewerage Authorities Association.

9.3. The expert Committee recommended—

- (a) that provisions regarding stream pollution existing in various Acts should be consolidated into one Act;
- (b) that a Standing Committee representing the Commission of Public Health, State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, Fisheries and Game Department, Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works and Provincial Sewerage Authorities, be appointed to prepare regulations under the proposed Act and to fix standards for effluents and wastes discharged to streams;
- (c) that the Commission of Public Health administer the Act and carry out pollution control measures throughout the whole State;

- (d) that the enforcement of provisions be carried out by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission and the Fisheries and Game Department;
- (e) that industries proposing to discharge wastes to streams seek the approval of the Commission of Public Health;
- (f) that adequate penalties be fixed for contravention of provisions;
- (g) that provision be made for the appointment of sufficient staff to properly administer pollution controls.

9.4. The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works submitted that the only action that may have been taken on these recommendations was the enactment in 1954 of section 82 of the Health Act and that generally the recommendations are still pertinent.

9.5. Most witnesses agreed that a Representative Committee should be appointed to formulate standards of quality for effluents or wastes that are proposed to be discharged to inland or coastal waters as the effects of water pollution vitally affected the operations of Authorities providing water supply and drainage services, protecting public health and wildlife and in generally maintaining a more acceptable aesthetic environment.

9.6. It was considered by witnesses that the present standards determining quality of matter discharged to inland waters or coastal waters should be revised to—

- (a) apply to any drain or channel which may convey any such matter directly or indirectly to such waters;
- (b) impose limits on the quantity of matter which may be discharged having regard to the flow or level of such receiving waters;
- (c) incorporate such provisions as will enable the best use of water resources for domestic consumption, agricultural and industrial purposes, fisheries and wildlife conservation, and to provide protection against damage or obstruction to waterways and drainage works.

9.7. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission suggested—

- (a) that a general standard of purity of wastes discharged to a drain or stream should apply throughout the State and should be related to the minimum flow or level of receiving waters;
- (b) the general standard could be a revision combination and extension of the present Stream Pollution Regulations, by-laws and regulations under the Latrobe Valley Act 1958 and the Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Act 1958 and the tentative standards adopted by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works.
- (c) that powers to specify limits regarding the purity and quantity of waste discharged should not be made general and that municipalities and minor Authorities should be empowered only to enforce the limits set by the main Authorities.

9.8. The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch considered that chemical, physical and biological monitoring of streams for water quality should be undertaken by the Departments of Agriculture, Health, Fisheries and Wildlife, the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission and Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works to enable proper consideration to be given to the fixing or variation of standards.

9.9. The Committee was advised that the Queensland Department of Local Government has undertaken surveys of rivers to—

- (a) determine the effects of pollution;
- (b) locate the sources of pollution;
- (c) investigate causes of fish kills;
- (d) monitor the effects of waste discharges from industries and sewage treatment plants;
- (e) assess the ability of a river to accept wastes and to determine the degree of treatment necessary prior to discharge.

9.10. The Committee was told that monitoring of the Latrobe River was being carried out by the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board and that salinity recording stations had been established by the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission and were operating in the River Murray system.

GENERAL CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

10.1. The Committee is satisfied that sufficient evidence has been produced to indicate that, in some instances, inland and coastal waters of Victoria are being detrimentally affected by polluting matter and that it can be expected that the quality of these waters will progressively deteriorate.

With the continuing development of both urban and rural areas of the State, the maintenance of inland and coastal waters even in their present condition cannot be achieved under the administration of present pollution provisions.

10.2. The present large number of statutory provisions relating to the control of water pollution and the differing objectives of Authorities administering such provisions have resulted in a limited and unco-ordinated approach by such Authorities in dealing with the problems of water pollution.

10.3. The Committee considers that the present standards laid down for matter which may be discharged to inland waters are inadequate to protect the quality of the receiving waters and need to be completely revised to enable water resources to be utilized in the best interests of the community.

10.4. There is a need for a programme to be initiated to survey inland and coastal waters in order to determine the present extent of pollution in such waters and to obtain sufficient data to enable the fixing of suitable standards for matter discharged directly or indirectly to such waters.

10.5. The Committee agrees with the contention made during the Inquiry that the numerous Authorities exercising controls over inland waters should not have power to set standards of quality for matter proposed to be discharged to such waters, but that a representative body should be charged with this responsibility and that the standards appropriate in each case should then be applied by such Authorities throughout the State.

10.6. The Committee considers that the representative body should have over-riding administrative and enforcement powers in addition to advisory functions to ensure compliance with any conditions imposed. As the protection of public health is of primary importance in the control of water pollution, it is considered that the representative body should be directly responsible to the Minister of Health.

10.7. During the investigation of the powers of Authorities it became apparent that a great variation exists in the penalties provided for breaches of pollution control provisions. Although the Committee does not propose to recommend what penalties should apply, it considers that a number of these penalties appear to be too small to act as a deterrent.

10.8. The lack of clarity in existing pollution control provisions as to whether such controls extend to the discharge of polluting matter to drains or channels that directly or indirectly convey polluting matter to inland or coastal waters is considered by the Committee to be a serious weakness.

Recommendations.

10.9. A new statute should be enacted to provide for a consistent water pollution control policy to be applied throughout the State with the object of minimizing the effects of pollution of inland and coastal waters and of enabling the water resources of the State to be utilized in the best interests of the community.

10.10. The proposed statute should make provision for—

- (a) prohibiting any person from causing or permitting any matter to enter any inland or coastal waters or any system of drains or channels which may convey such matter either directly or indirectly into such waters, unless such matter conforms to a prescribed standard of purity;
- (b) the appointment of a representative Water Pollution Control Authority to administer and enforce water pollution controls, to co-ordinate and rationalize the activities of other Authorities in the exercise of pollution controls, and to investigate and recommend measures necessary for the preservation of water resources and for the protection of works;
- (c) requiring the representative Authority to fix standards of quality for the acceptance of any matter into inland or coastal waters or into any system of drains or channels discharging to such waters;
- (d) applying sufficient moneys and providing personnel to enable the proposed Authority to carry out its functions;
- (e) fixing adequate penalties for contravention of provisions of the Act.

10.11. The Water Pollution Control Authority should be responsible to the Minister of Health, and should be constituted on the basis of one Member nominated by each of the following:—

- The Commission of Public Health (whose representative should be Chairman);
- The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission (representing non-metropolitan water supply, sewerage, and drainage Authorities);
- The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works (representing water supply, sewerage, and drainage interests of the metropolitan area);
- The Chief Secretary (representing Fisheries and Wildlife conservation);
- The Minister of Public Works (representing Port Authorities and coastal waters administration);
- The Minister for Local Government (representing non-metropolitan urban interests).

- 10.12. The functions of the Water Pollution Control Authority should be—
- to administer the provisions of the proposed Act and any regulations made under the Act;
  - to carry out, in conjunction with Authorities administering inland and coastal waters, surveys and investigations as to the causes, nature and extent of pollution in such waters;
  - to fix standards of quality for the acceptance of any matter into receiving waters;
  - to formulate regulations to prevent or minimize water pollution;
  - to co-ordinate the activities of Authorities exercising water pollution controls;
  - to specify methods to be adopted by Authorities in sampling and testing water;
  - to compile and publish information on methods of treatment of wastes and to organize and encourage research into methods of preventing water pollution.

10.13. The powers of enforcement of provisions made under the proposed Act should extend, in addition to the Water Pollution Control Authority, to Authorities exercising controls over drains, channels, inland or coastal waters, with a corresponding obligation on such Authorities to exercise such powers.

10.14. Provisions under existing legislation which extend powers to Authorities to fix standards of quality for the acceptance of matter into inland and coastal waters or drains and channels should be repealed and provision made for the adoption by Authorities of such standards specified and considered appropriate in any particular case by the Water Pollution Control Authority.

DOMESTIC SULLAGE.

11.1. The question asked under Term of Reference (e) is whether any and what provision should be made in respect of the discharge of domestic sullage to drains under the control of a municipality, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission or drainage trust constituted under the River Improvement Act 1958.

11.2. Although the types of prohibited wastes listed in Acts, regulations and by-laws of pollution control Authorities appear to embrace domestic sullage, little evidence has been presented to the Committee that these existing provisions have been used to prohibit the discharge of sullage.

The term "sullage" does not appear in any of these existing provisions.

11.3. In examining existing controls which may apply to the discharge of domestic sullage to drains, consideration has also been given to the operation of sewerage systems as a means of disposing of these wastes.

Municipalities.

11.4. It was suggested by the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission that municipal councils have no clear powers to exclude sullage from drains under their control.

11.5. The Health Department advised that it was unaware of any specific provisions for controlling the discharge of sullage from houses and was of the opinion that there was no practical solution to this practice apart from the provision of sewers to cater for sullage.

11.6. The Committee examined Part III. of the Health Act 1958 with the view of determining whether the powers and duties of municipal councils under the "nuisance" sections of the Act would be applicable in controlling the discharge of sullage from houses.

Part III. requires a council to maintain its municipal district in a clean and sanitary condition and provides power for a council to enforce the abatement of any nuisance which has caused any drain, ditch, gutter, or watercourse to become dangerous to health or offensive.

It was considered that these powers would be invoked only for minor cases of a local nature, and the Health Commission could not acquaint the Committee of any court action taken by municipalities for the abatement of a nuisance caused by the discharge of sullage.

11.7. The Committee considers that, in view of the widespread practice of discharging sullage into drainage systems and the consequent difficulty in determining the source of the nuisance, the provisions of Part III. of the Health Act 1958 are not designed to enable municipal councils to control or prohibit the general discharge of sullage.

11.8. Clauses 3023 and 3024 of the Uniform Building Regulations (which impose conditions on the erection of new buildings or the alteration of existing buildings) appear to the Committee to be the only provisions which give to a council a measure of control over the discharge of sullage.

11.9. The Health Inspectors Association considered that an anomaly existed in clause 3024 of the regulations whereby a council may only require a grease trap to be installed where domestic sullage is conveyed to an underground pipe drainage system provided by the council.

It was suggested that provision should also be made for a grease trap to be provided where sullage is to be discharged to a street channel or easement.

11.10. The Committee considers that although possible dangers to public health would not be eliminated, the proper operation of a grease trap would prevent the discharge of many offensive solids to drains, street channels or easements.

11.11. The Committee is of the opinion that the Uniform Building Regulations should be amended to make compulsory the fitting of a grease trap where domestic sullage is proposed to be discharged to a drain, street channel, or easement provided for the purpose of draining surface waters.

Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works.

11.12. The Committee was informed by the Board that the provisions of section 130 and by-law 32 made under section 278 (1) (b) of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958, would apply to the control of the discharge of sullage.

The Board advised that compliance with by-law 32 had been achieved on numerous occasions by the threat of action.

11.13. It was pointed out that although section 130 gives power to prosecute a person who pollutes the Board's stormwater channels or drains the section does not appear to apply to drains under the control of a municipal council and which then discharge to Board's drains. As domestic sullage would normally discharge to a drain under the control of the municipality, it would appear that the Board has no direct control over the entry of domestic sullage to its drainage system from these sources.

Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board.

11.14. By-law No. 2 of the Board prohibits certain substances from being discharged into the Latrobe River. It was suggested however, that the powers under this by-law would not extend to drains discharging into the River although the Board stated that cases of polluted matter emanating from council drains had been rectified with the co-operation of councils following discussions.

State Rivers and Water Supply Commission.

11.15. The Commission advised that difficulties had been experienced in the acceptance of sullage into its pipe drains at Red Cliffs which resulted in the drainage system becoming so offensive that sullage drainage from the town had to be excluded.

11.16. The provisions of section 379 of the Water Act 1958 would appear to enable control over the discharge of domestic sullage to drains under the control of the Commission.

River Improvement and Drainage Trusts.

11.17. The Committee was advised that the powers of section 55 of the River Improvement Act 1958 would be limited to works under the control of such Trusts and did not extend to drains.

Stream Pollution Regulations 1943.

11.18. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission expressed the view that although these regulations applied throughout most of Victoria the existing provisions did not appear to provide for powers of control over the discharge of sullage to drains.

SEWERAGE CONNEXIONS.

11.19. Witnesses appearing before the Committee were divided in their views as to what rights should apply in the disposal of sullage although it was generally agreed that the only completely satisfactory method of alleviating this problem was to provide total sewerage facilities to dispose of these wastes.

11.20. As urban development in the metropolitan area has grown rapidly in recent years, the provision of sewerage services by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works was investigated by the Committee.

11.21. Statistics concerning the sewerage operations of the Board to 1965-66 show that approximately 450,000 properties were connected to the sewerage system and 73,500 dwellings had not been provided with sewers to enable household connexion.

As at March 1965, 28,000 dwellings fell into an intermediate category which were provided with the Board's sewer but had not been connected to the system.

11.22. Where sewers have been provided by the Board, section 160 of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958 gives the Board power to order the connexion of properties to such sewer. The Board may execute the work in the event of the owner's non-compliance or at the owner's request, and recover the cost pursuant to the terms of section 170 of the Act.

Following the provision of sewers by an Authority, the problem of pollution caused through sullage discharged to storm water drains should diminish. The Committee however, considers that the Board's reluctance to enforce its powers under section 160 has limited the value of sewerage services in removing a source of water pollution.

11.23. The Committee was informed that the reasons for the Board's reluctance to enforce the provisions of section 160 were due to the limited moneys available to it to finance the connexion of premises to main sewers, the lack of available trained staff and the difficulties encountered in obtaining contractors to perform this work.

11.24. As at June, 1966, 1,000 applications for financial assistance were awaiting approval by the Board.

It was estimated that the total cost of executing the work resulting from these applications would be $500,000.

The Committee was advised that the estimated delay in fulfilling these requests would take from 2 to 3 years due to the Board's lack of finance.

11.25. Moneys received in repayment under the terms of section 170 are paid into the Board's general fund. An amount is allocated from the general fund each year for the purposes of financing house connexions.

The Board considered that the limited finances available to it should be used to extend its sewerage system and that, wherever possible, owners should make their own financial and contractual arrangements for household connexion.

11.26. The Committee considers that the number of dwellings not connected to sewers already provided constitutes a serious defect in pollution control.

The reluctance of householders to incur the quite often heavy expense of sewer connexion is appreciated by the Committee, particularly where a septic tank system has been installed in the absence of other sewerage facilities and which generally cannot be utilized when making connexion to the sewer of an Authority. However, the Committee considers that where sewers have been provided for the purpose of disposing of human wastes and sullage, the continued discharge of sullage to stormwater facilities cannot be justified.

11.27. In the Committee's view, the responsibility for ensuring that householders connect, within a reasonable period, to the provided sewerage system, should lie solely on the relevant Sewerage Authority, and that such Authority should make available out of its funds or out of funds provided for the purpose, sufficient moneys to fulfil this responsibility.

11.28. The Committee recommends that the provisions of the Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Act 1958, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958 and the Sewerage Districts Act 1958 should be amended—

- (a) to require the owner of a dwelling-house to make connexions to a sewer provided by a Sewerage Authority within six months, or, where a septic tank system is being used, within two years, from the issue of a notice stating that the sewer is available for connexion; and
- (b) to require each of the Authorities concerned to establish and maintain a separate fund, and to apply sufficient moneys to it, to enable the Authority to assist owners to make sewerage connexions within the prescribed times.

RIGHT TO DISCHARGE DOMESTIC SULLAGE.

11.29. Opinion was divided amongst witnesses who appeared before the Committee on whether any rights should be granted to a householder to discharge domestic sullage to stormwater drainage systems where sewerage facilities have not been provided.

11.30. Mr. H. Hughes, representing the Urban Land Institute of Australia, suggested that various statutes refer to surface water but do not define this term. He expressed the opinion that statute law has never adopted a negative approach of preventing householders from discharging sullage but has been aimed at empowering Authorities to deal with it and dispose of it.

He further submitted that there were ample powers already existing to enforce connexion of drains discharging sullage to drainage and sewerage systems operated by Authorities and therefore the discharge of surface water should be deemed to include the discharge of sullage.

11.31. Mr. R. W. Lloyd, representing Jennings Estates and Finance Limited, suggested that, by the discharge of polluted waters, an owner faced the uncertainty of possible action by a downstream owner seeking an injunction or damages with respect to polluted waters passing through or adjacent to the downstream lands.

He suggested that, in the absence of sewerage facilities, sullage be permitted to be discharged to drains and watercourses.

11.32. Mr. L. Voumard, Q.C., on behalf of a group of land developers, submitted that sullage be permitted to be discharged to council drains where defined as a lawful point of discharge and that no liability for nuisance should be available against the person so discharging sullage.

11.33. The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works considered that no liability should be imposed on the upper owner for discharging surface water, including sullage, where no alternative disposal system is available. The only exception should be where public health interests may be prejudiced.

It was the opinion of the Board that the only practical method of preventing sullage discharge to a drainage system is to completely sewer the catchment area and that, with regard to the area controlled by it, this proposal is completely beyond the present financial resources of the Board.

11.34. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission submitted that there should be no right for any property owner to discharge untreated sullage—(a) on to the property of his downhill neighbour ; (b) to street drains ; and (c) to drains of any Drainage Authority.

It was considered by the Commission that holding tanks and sterilization of sullage before discharge to drains and streams would not be an unreasonable requirement where water supplies and public health interests so demand, and that provision of adequate grease traps to remove certain solids from sullage before discharge to drains should be made to minimize damage to or obstruction of drainage systems.

11.35. The establishment of treatment works by municipalities to treat sullage before being discharged into rivers, streams, and watercourses was advocated by the Health Inspectors Association.

11.36. The Commission of Public Health opposed the discharge of sullage to open drains and commented on the possible health dangers of direct contact with polluted waters through children playing in open drains and by the indirect transmission of disease by flies.

11.37. In reply to a query as to whether the provisions of section 133 of the Health Act 1958 would provide sufficient safeguards to adequately protect the public health where any condition dangerous to health arises as a result of the discharge of sullage to drains, the Chairman of the Commission of Public Health said—

“The powers given in section 133 of the Health Act are intended to be used in case of emergency or sudden necessity. In the Commission’s view, it is most unlikely that the discharge of household sullage to drains would create such an emergency but the Commission feels that the powers in this section would be adequate to deal with any such emergency.”

11.38. The Committee is of the opinion that—

- (a) the provisions prohibiting the discharge of certain matter to rivers, creeks or watercourses, although citing various substances which would be present in sullage, give no specific control to an Authority over the discharge of sullage ;
- (b) no clear power is given to Authorities controlling stream pollution to extend their control to drains which may discharge sullage to such stream ;
- (c) with regard to the powers administered by Authorities for control of water pollution which were brought to the Committee’s notice, it would appear that little use has been made of such powers to prohibit or control the discharge of sullage.

11.39. In evaluating the conflicting view of witnesses as to the conditions which should apply to the discharge of sullage, the Committee was hampered through the lack of available information concerning the effects on the health of the community due to existing practices in disposing of sullage.

The Committee is aware that there are potential dangers to health from contaminated matter being present in drains and waterways, and expresses its concern that no research programme appears to have been undertaken to determine possible links between the practice of discharging sullage and other wastes to drainage systems and waterways and the incidence of bacterial and viral diseases within the community.

11.40. In view of the present widespread practice of householders discharging domestic sullage to surface water drainage systems and the present lack of direct evidence indicating positive dangers to the community, it is considered that a restricted right to discharge sullage to surface water drainage systems should apply to a householder.

11.41. The Committee recommends that it should be declared lawful for the occupier of a dwelling-house to discharge domestic sullage to an adjoining easement, street channel or drain provided for the purpose of carrying off surface waters, in a case where either a sewer has not been provided, or a sewer has been provided but owners of properties are not yet required by law to make connexions to it, except where—

- (a) in the opinion of the council of the municipality, domestic sullage discharged from the dwelling-house could be absorbed on the property ;
- (b) the owner or occupier has failed to comply with any lawful requirement of the council of the municipality or a drainage authority concerning the provision and operation of fittings to prevent damage to or interference with drainage works, or to prevent or abate any nuisance ; or
- (c) in the opinion of the Commission of Public Health, the discharge would endanger the public health.

11.42. The Committee recommends that a research programme should be instituted to determine the effects (if any) on the public health resulting from the discharge of domestic sullage to stormwater drainage systems.

SEPTIC TANK EFFLUENTS.

12.1. The control of septic tank installations and the discharge of effluent therefrom is provided for by section 65 of the Health Act and the Septic Tank Regulations 1932 made under the provisions re-enacted as section 92 (d) of the Health Act 1958.

12.2. Municipal councils are primarily responsible for the administration of septic tank provisions, and grant approval for the establishment and operation of septic tank systems, except in the following circumstances :—

- (a) where a council operates or proposes installing a septic tank system or where a septic tank system is proposed to be installed for servicing a public building, the approval of the Commission of Public Health is required ; and
- (b) where the effluent from a septic tank system is to be discharged to a river, creek, stream, watercourse, water-channel, lake, lagoon, swamp or waterhole or into the waters of the sea the application is required to be forwarded to the Commission of Public Health for examination and recommendation before approval can be given by a council.

12.3. In the Septic Tank Regulations 1932 the term “ septic tank ” includes—

“ every fixed or stationary receptacle whether placed above or below or partly above ground and in which nightsoil or matter mixed therewith household or industrial waste waters or any combination or mixture of the same whether or not containing decomposed or decomposable organic matter in solid liquid or colloidal state is detained or temporarily held up for sedimentation precipitation disintegration digestion liquefaction gasification or oxidation whether with or without the aid of chemicals and every tank basin circulating or other chamber tower lagoon weir pond trough tray distributor carrier channel drain or under-drain duct pipe sewer bed filter pit well appliance or land whether prepared or not used for the treatment of sewage or sewage effluent scum or sludge.”

12.4. The Health Inspectors Association informed the Committee that although bacterial action in a septic tank rapidly decomposes organic matter in sewage, a further oxidizing process by means of a trickling filter or by underground absorption through agricultural drains was necessary to eliminate disease producing organisms.

12.5. The Association considered that the provisions controlling septic tank systems and the operation of septic tanks were generally satisfactory where soil conditions were favourable and adequate areas were set aside for the disposal of effluent.

12.6. Clause 24 of the Septic Tank Regulations requires a council to cause a septic tank system to be inspected each year and if any nuisance, injury to health, or offensiveness, arises from the use of such system then the council shall issue a notice to the owner requiring him to remedy such condition.

The Health Inspectors Association advised the Committee that the required inspections were not being carried out by councils and the Commission of Public Health considered that inspections would not be made unless a complaint was received.

12.7. The Committee was informed that approximately 50,000 septic tanks were in operation in the metropolitan area as at March, 1965.

12.8. When questioned on the performance of councils in inspecting septic tank systems the Commission of Public Health could not indicate the number or frequency of inspections made by councils.

12.9. The Commission considered that it may be sufficient for an inspection to be undertaken every 3 or 4 years for systems that provide for absorption of the effluent in the soil and for regular or annual inspection to be made of systems where the effluent is discharged after treatment to streams or drains.

12.10. The Committee considers that statutory controls relating to the installation and operation of septic tank systems are generally sufficient to provide adequate safeguards to health and to prevent offensive conditions arising in drains and streams.

12.11. In view of the apparent lack of supervision of the operation of septic tank systems and the danger of inadequately treated effluent being discharged to drains and streams the Committee considers that the provision requiring inspection of septic tank systems should be strictly enforced.

The frequency of inspection now required of municipal councils should be lessened to make administration of the provisions practicable but it should be incumbent on municipal councils to report annually to the Commission of Public Health on inspections undertaken by it.

12.12. It is recommended that—

Division 2 of Part IV. of the Health Act 1958 and the Septic Tank Regulations 1932 should be amended to require—

(a) that an inspection of a septic tank system be undertaken by the administering Authority—at least once in every four years in the case of a household septic tank system which is designed to absorb the effluent on the property ;

or

at least once in each year for any other system in operation ;

(b) that municipal councils report each year to the Commission of Public Health on the number of inspections of septic tank systems made by council, the number of systems found to be defective and the number of defective systems remedied in accordance with notices issued by the council.

SEWERAGE TREATMENT WORKS.

13.1. The Committee after observing the operation of sewerage treatment works by Authorities, considers that a potential danger exists from excess surface water and effluents from the works overflowing into inland waters.

It also considers that the disposal of solids produced as a result of treatment processes and used for agricultural purposes, could cause pollution of surface waters unless the disposal and placement of such solids is rigidly controlled.

13.2. Section 116 of the Sewerage Districts Act 1958 exempts sewerage and drainage operations or works of an Authority from the provisions of any Act relating to local government and public health.

Although the requirements of the Act impose obligations on a Sewerage Authority to ensure that no nuisance is created in the exercise of its powers relating to the collection, disposal and treatment of sewage and refuse, the Committee is of the opinion that powers of supervision of the operations of Sewerage Authorities should be given to the Commission of Public Health.

13.3. The provisions of section 121 of the Sewerage Districts Act 1958 enable the Commission of Public Health to make known its requirements on any proposal to establish sewage treatment works and appear to provide sufficient safeguards in the establishment of works.

13.4. The Committee recommends that statutory provision should be made to—

(a) require the Commission of Public Health to inspect the treatment works of a Sewerage Authority at least once in every six months ;

(b) enable the Commission of Public Health to formulate regulations concerning the treatment and disposal of wastes by Sewerage Authorities ;

(c) require a Sewerage Authority to comply with any direction of the Commission concerning the treatment and disposal of wastes.

TRADE WASTES.

14.1. The problems of water pollution resulting from the discharge of trade wastes to drainage systems and inland and coastal waters were referred to by witnesses.

They considered that, with increasing industrialization and the resultant concentration of industry causing greater quantities of industrial wastes of a more complex nature to be discharged to inland or coastal waters, the maintenance of such waters even in their present condition cannot be achieved due to the present lack of control over the volume and number of discharges.

14.2. Mr. C. Earl, appearing on behalf of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, in commenting on the situation applying in the disposal of trade wastes within the metropolitan area, said—

“There is a very large variety of trade wastes being discharged by industries located within the metropolis and fortunately most of the trade waste is connected to the sewerage system after whatever treatment the Board considers necessary.

However, many industries remain unsewered and discharge waste water which eventually finds its way into watercourses or drains under the control of the Board, whilst some sewerred industries occasionally release noxious discharges into the drainage system.

These wastes in some instances present a major problem. Some wastes can be deemed to be a direct danger to public health, consisting as they do, of poisonous chemicals; others may create noxious conditions in the watercourses, whilst others are bad aesthetically."

14.3. Mr. Earl referred to the types of matter likely to be present in trade wastes as follows :—

"Like domestic sewage, trade wastes may contain suspended, colloidal and dissolved solids of mineral or organic origin. Unlike domestic sewage, trade waste rarely harbours living organisms of human diseases with the exception of several industrial processes such as wool-scouring, tanneries and abattoirs. The type of waste varies with the industry and the quantity and quality may vary from day to day. The trade waste from an electroplating works may contain dangerous chemicals such as cyanides and chromates, or a galvanizing works may release sulphuric acid as an occasional discharge, whilst a butter factory or an ice-cream factory may have a virtually continuous discharge of noxious milk wastes. Or it may simply be hot water being discharged from a boiler or a condenser, however, the heat causing odours to arise from a watercourse or killing fish in a river."

14.4. The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch informed the Committee of the possible effects of thermal pollution of a stream resulting from the discharge of heated trade effluents or heated water from cooling processes.

As a consequence of a temperature rise in streams, the oxygen level in a stream is reduced.

Where organic matter is present, bio-chemical reactions are faster and dissolved oxygen is used at an accelerated rate. If the dissolved oxygen content of the stream should fall to zero, putrefaction of organic matter will occur giving rise to bad smells and nuisance.

14.5. The Branch considered that by raising the temperature of a stream, fish sensitive to high temperature or changes in temperature will die and that adverse alterations to fish habitat will result.

14.6. The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works referred to a number of cases where concrete drains had been severely damaged due to the discharge of corrosive wastes and where detection of such discharges was extremely difficult. In one case the loss of more than one half of an inch of concrete in a newly constructed drain was considered to be due to the discharge of a vat of sulphuric acid released at night from a galvanizing works.

The detection of an offender discharging obnoxious wastes to the drainage system was considered by the Board to be extremely difficult where—(a) there is a concentration of industries, (b) discharges are made to an underground pipe drain, or (c) wastes are discharged at night.

CONTROLS.

14.7. Division 6 of Part IV. places the responsibility for approving trade waste discharges to streams or sources of water supply on the Commission of Public Health and applies controls throughout the State with the exception of areas under the control of the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board.

14.8. Section 77 defines "source of water supply" and "stream" as follows :—

"Source of water supply" includes any stream spring reservoir or well if the water therein or therefrom is or is likely to be used for drinking purposes by man or for domestic purposes or for any purpose in connexion with the preparation manufacture or sale of food or in connexion with a dairy-farm or dairy.

"Stream" includes river creek stream watercourse lake lagoon swamp marsh or open irrigation or water supply channel.

14.9. The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works was critical of the manner in which the provisions of section 82 have been applied in recent years and suggested that the Health Commission's interpretation of "stream" has excluded control of the discharge of trade wastes to drains.

14.10. The Board reported that cases are known of discharge into its main drains where applicants have been informed by the Commission that, as the wastes were not being discharged to a stream within the meaning of section 77 of the Health Act 1958, approval of the Commission of Public Health pursuant to section 82 was not required.

14.11. In the opinion of the Health Commission it was considered that the definitions in section 77 of "source of water supply" and "stream" would not allow the provisions of section 82 to be invoked where industrial wastes were discharged to street channels or drains and that in the event of amendment to section 82 the definition of "stream" should be extended to include street channels and drains.

14.12. Section 82 sets out the powers and duties of the Commission of Public Health as follows :—

“(1) A person shall not—

- (a) establish re-establish or materially extend any trade business or undertaking which is likely to produce any liquid or solid waste which may enter or flow or pass or seep into any stream or any source of water supply;
- (b) alter any system of disposal of liquid or solid waste produced in the course of any trade business or undertaking which enters or flows or falls or passes or seeps into any stream or any source of water supply or alter any such system so as to cause or permit any such waste to so enter flow fall pass or seep;
- (c) cause or permit any liquid or solid waste produced in the course of any trade business or undertaking (which is after the commencement of the Health (Amendment) Act 1954 established re-established materially extended or so altered) to enter or flow or fall or pass or seep into any stream or source of water supply—

unless provision is made for the purification or satisfactory disposal of such waste by means approved by the Commission in writing.

(2) Applications for approval under this section shall be made in writing in triplicate and each copy shall be accompanied by—

- (a) a plan showing the site and extent and (where applicable) the proposed site and extent of the business trade or undertaking concerned;
- (b) particulars as to the nature and quantities of the wastes likely to be produced; and
- (c) particulars as to the means proposed to be adopted for purifying and disposing of such wastes.

(3) On receipt of such application the Commission shall refer—

(a) to—

- (i) the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission; or
- (ii) the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works where the stream or source of water supply concerned is under the jurisdiction of that Board; or
- (iii) the Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Trust where the stream or source of water supply concerned is under the jurisdiction of that Trust; and a copy of such application together with a copy of the accompanying plan and documents.

(b) to the Director of Fisheries and Wildlife—

(4) If within the period of one month after receipt of a copy of such application the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission or the said Board or Trust (as the case may be) or the Director of Fisheries and Wildlife submits to the Commission a report (which may include any objections or recommendations which it or he thinks proper to make on the application) the Commission shall consider such report.

(5) At the expiration of such period, or sooner if all relevant reports have been submitted, the Commission, after considering any reports or report duly submitted, shall—

- (a) approve the application with or without such modifications or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit; or
- (b) refuse to approve the application:

Provided that the Commission shall refuse to approve the application in any case where approval would be contrary to the provisions of Part XVI. of this Act.

(6) Nothing in this section shall apply to or in respect of any wastes which or which may seep or flow or pass by natural means into the Latrobe River (as defined in the Latrobe Valley Act 1958).”

14.13. In administering the powers contained in section 82 the standards set down in the Stream Pollution Regulations 1943 and in the tentative standards adopted by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works (where applying to streams under the control of the Board) are used as a guide for specifying treatment of wastes.

14.14. Mr. H. Hughes, in commenting on the requirement under section 82 that applications for approval to discharge wastes to streams be referred to certain Authorities, suggested that such applications should be referred to any drainage or water supply Authority if the application relates to any stream or waters under the control of such Authority.

14.15. The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch considered that a weakness existed in the provision of section 82 in so far as industries established prior to 1954 were not subject to the requirements of the section.

It was claimed that an implied right to pollute was being exercised by some industries established prior to 1954 and that those industries should be brought under controls exercised over trade waste disposal.

14.16. The Committee notes that in 1961, legislation<sup>(1)</sup> was passed in the United Kingdom to bring industries exempted under previous river pollution controls within the scope of pollution control powers exercised by River Boards.

14.17. The Committee considers that the lack of direct control over industries established prior to 1954 is a serious defect in the control of trade waste discharges and that those industries should be brought under the general powers set out in section 82.

14.18. It was submitted by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works that a weakness exists in the administration of the section as the Health Commission does not have the necessary organization to police the conditions imposed, and that there appears to be no real power to force compliance.

14.19. The Health Commission, in reply, considered that the powers of section 400 of the Health Act 1958 enabled the inspection of premises to be undertaken to ensure compliance with conditions imposed under section 82, and that section 388 makes it an offence if the plans, specifications, or any condition imposed are not adhered to.

14.20. The Committee was advised that annual inspections were made of premises discharging wastes pursuant to approval granted under section 82 and that the staff establishment for this purpose consisted of 4 engineers, 1 chemist, and 8 health inspectors. It was considered by the Health Commission that this staff establishment was sufficient for the present operation of section 82.

14.21. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission was of the opinion that the present application of section 82 of the Health Act 1958 was related almost entirely to matters affecting public health, and was confined to streams and was not effective in preventing other adverse conditions resulting from pollution of drains and streams.

Latrobe Valley Act 1958.

14.22. The provisions concerning control of trade wastes to the Latrobe River, as set out in paragraph 6.13 of this Report, vest in the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board powers similar to those administered by the Commission of Public Health for the rest of the State.

Standards set down in by-law No. 2 of the Board are used as a guide in determining standards of treatment of trade wastes.

14.23. The Committee was advised that the recently amended provisions of section 65 now allow more flexibility in the administration of pollution controls by permitting the Board to enter into agreements with industries for the discharge of trade wastes to the Latrobe River.

Such agreements, which may vary the application of the standards laid down in by-law No. 2, were regarded as a much more satisfactory method of controlling water pollution by trade wastes, as the ability of the river to absorb such wastes can be taken into account in any conditional agreement.

14.24. The Board, when questioned as to whether its control of trade waste discharges extended to drains which would eventually discharge to the river, considered that it was doubtful if the present powers would extend to drains.

At present if sub-standard matter is discharged from council drains into the Latrobe River or any of its tributaries, the Board stated that it looked to the council to take such measures to ensure that wastes conformed to the standards prescribed by the by-law, rather than taking action against individuals.

14.25. The Board agreed that the policing of pollution controls would be more effective if it could control discharges of trade wastes to drains which discharged directly or indirectly into the Latrobe River.

SUGGESTED CHANGES IN PRESENT CONTROLS.

14.26. The Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works submitted that it should be given direct control over the entry of trade wastes into any drain or watercourse which is connected to its drainage system. The Board considered that, as its present powers enabled it to take action only after a polluting discharge has occurred, the power to deal with applications by industries desiring to discharge wastes and to enter into agreements with such industries would enable it to exercise greater control over the discharge of trade wastes. It was envisaged that these controls would be exercised in a similar manner to those operating at present in the discharge of trade wastes to the Board's sewers.

14.27. The State Rivers and Water Supply Commission submitted—

(a) that major drainage Authorities should have powers, similar to those exercised by the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, to enter into agreements with industry to vary or add to general standards relating to the treatment and disposal of trade wastes ;

(b) that it was not practical for a central Authority such as the Commission to undertake day to day enforcement of trade waste discharges and that these functions should be exercised by local Authorities with the major Authorities such as the Commission, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, and Health Department exercising overriding powers to direct such Authority or to act independently ;

- (c) that permits for the discharge of trade wastes to drains and watercourses under the control of a municipality should be issued by such municipality after referral to the Health Department and major drainage Authorities, and should not be issued if objections are received from such Authorities ;
- (d) that the issue of permits relating to drains and streams outside the jurisdiction of municipalities could be made by an appropriate drainage Authority subject to the restrictions mentioned in paragraph (c).

14.28. The Committee, in considering the suggested changes proposed by the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works and State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, felt that although the granting of powers to Authorities to issue permits and enter into agreements with industry may place such Authorities in a stronger position in enforcing pollution controls, such transfer of powers from the Commission of Public Health to numerous Authorities would not assist the objective of co-ordinating the activities of such Authorities or of developing a uniform approach in the exercise of pollution controls.

APPLICATION OF CONTROLS.

14.29. The Committee considers that it is desirable for one Authority to be responsible for the issuing of permits to discharge trade wastes to inland and coastal waters of the State and to specify the degree of treatment necessary for the acceptance of such wastes. At present the Commission of Public Health exercises this function for the major portion of the State, with control for the remaining areas being exercised by the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board.

14.30. The Committee considers that, although the protection of the health of the community remains the primary and most important objective in the control of water pollution, the Commission of Public Health is not sufficiently representative of the Authorities and interests affected by pollution of inland and coastal waters and that the powers of consent for the disposal of trade wastes should vest in the proposed representative Water Pollution Control Authority for the whole of the State.

14.31. The Committee is firmly of the opinion that all persons discharging trade wastes to inland and coastal waters should be required to obtain a permit to dispose of such wastes and be obliged to comply with any requirement imposed by the issuing Authority.

14.32. To maintain receiving waters in a satisfactory condition, the Committee considers that any condition attaching to a permit issued for the discharge of trade wastes, should be subject to review by the issuing Authority at five-yearly intervals. This review is considered desirable as a means of maintaining the capacity of the receiving waters to absorb trade wastes where greater demands are made for utilization of such waters and where such waters are used as a vehicle for carrying away greater volumes of trade wastes as a result of increased industrial development.

14.33. As a result of inspections of industrial undertakings and discussions with company officials, the Committee is aware that the implementation of its recommendations will greatly affect industries at present exempt from controls and, to a lesser extent, those industries at present complying with conditions of approval based on existing standards of quality for acceptance of trade wastes.

In order to attain a standard of quality of trade waste acceptable for discharge to inland or coastal waters, extensive and sophisticated treatment equipment may need to be installed by some industries.

The Committee considers that, in applying controls over the disposal of trade wastes, regard should be had to existing agreements and approvals and that a reasonable period of time should be allowed to enable industries at present exempted from controls to comply with the necessary requirements attaching to the issue of a permit.

14.34. In view of the extensive powers proposed to be granted to the Water Pollution Control Authority, the Committee considers that there should be provision for a person seeking a permit to discharge trade wastes to appeal against the refusal of the Authority to issue a permit or against any requirement attaching to a permit that the applicant considers unreasonable. The Committee considers that such appeal should be made to the Governor-in-Council.

14.35. The practice of accepting trade wastes into sewers and works of Sewerage Authorities was adverted to by witnesses who submitted that where such facilities were available for the acceptance of trade wastes, such wastes should be disposed of through the sewerage system.

The Committee agrees with this policy but considers that the Sewerage Authority concerned should have power to accept or refuse such wastes, where the wastes may detrimentally affect the operation of the purification processes of such works, or where the works may not be of sufficient capacity to accept the volume of trade wastes proposed to be discharged.

14.36. Where sewerage facilities become available for the disposal of trade wastes, the Committee considers that any permit issued to allow such trade wastes to be discharged to inland or coastal waters, or drains or channels, should be revoked and that such wastes should be disposed of through the sewerage system.

ENFORCEMENT OF CONTROLS.

14.37. The Committee appreciates that, with the vesting in the proposed Water Pollution Control Authority of initial controls over the discharge of trade wastes, by the issue of permits, and by the extension of such controls to all inland and coastal waters and drains or channels which may convey wastes to such waters, the question of effective enforcement becomes a critical factor.

14.38. Opinions of witnesses varied from the suggestion that controls should be exercised at the local level with overriding powers given to major Authorities to the suggestion that complete control be given to major Authorities over all discharges affecting their works, regardless of whether such discharges were made initially to drains &c., under the control of municipalities or local Authorities.

14.39. The Committee considers that a number of levels of administration are necessary to maintain effective control of trade waste discharges. These levels should apply and operate as follows :—

- (a) The Water Pollution Control Authority (the issuing Authority) should have powers to enforce throughout the State, treatment requirements for wastes and any other condition attaching to a permit. To make the Authority the only policing body however, would require the appointment of large numbers of officers and the Committee does not consider that such action is warranted ;
- (b) Major Authorities should be empowered to enter and inspect premises and take action to ensure compliance with the conditions attaching to any permit and to prosecute if such conditions are not being observed. It is envisaged that Authorities such as the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Trust, and Dandenong Valley Authority, would exercise these powers for the whole of their respective areas whether or not trade wastes are discharged directly to the works of such Authorities. It is considered also that the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch should be authorized to exercise these powers ;
- (c) Municipalities and local Authorities should be required to undertake day to day enforcement of general pollution provisions and to refer to the relevant major Authority any case of non-compliance with conditions attaching to a permit issued for the discharge of trade wastes.

Recommendations.

14.40. No Authority or person should be permitted to discharge any trade wastes into any inland or coastal waters or into any system of drains or channels which may convey such wastes either directly or indirectly into such waters unless such Authority or person has applied for and received a permit to discharge such wastes.

14.41. The proposed Water Pollution Control Authority should be the issuing Authority for such permits and should be vested with powers similar to those provided by section 82 of the Health Act 1958.

14.42. The issuing Authority should have power to review any condition attaching to the issue of a permit to discharge trade wastes and to vary any such condition after a period of five years from the issue of such permit.

14.43. The issuing Authority should have power to notify the holder of a permit that such permit will be revoked on a future date where a Sewerage Authority constructs works which will enable the discharge of trade wastes to a sewerage system.

14.44. Any Authority or person should have a right of appeal to the Governor-in-Council against any refusal of the Water Pollution Control Authority to issue a permit or where the conditions attaching to such permit are considered to be unreasonable.

14.45. In the application of any powers proposed under these recommendations regard should be had to existing approvals and agreements relating to the discharge of trade wastes and, in the case of persons at present not subject to the provisions of section 82 of the Health Act 1958, a reasonable period of time should be granted to such persons to enable them to comply with the proposed provisions.

14.46. The provisions of section 82 of the Health Act 1958 at present vesting powers in the Commission of Public Health should be repealed, and a similar provision should be incorporated, with the following amendments, in the proposed new statute and be administered by the Water Pollution Control Authority :—

- (i) Paragraph (c) of sub-section (1) should be extended to prohibit all persons from causing or permitting trade wastes to enter or flow into inland or coastal waters, or any system of drains or channels which may convey such wastes directly or indirectly into such waters, unless a permit has been issued.
- (ii) paragraph (a) of sub-section (3) should be extended to require the issuing Authority to refer an application for a permit to discharge trade wastes to—
  - the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission ; or
  - the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, where such application relates to the area under the control of the Board ; or
  - the Dandenong Valley Authority, where such application relates to the area under the control of that Authority ; or
  - the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, where such application relates to the area under the control of that Board ; or
  - the Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Trust, where such application relates to the area under the control of that Trust ; or
  - the appropriate Harbor Trust, where such application relates to the area under the control of that Trust ; and
  - the Director of Fisheries and Wildlife.
- (iii) sub-section (6) should be repealed to bring the control of trade waste discharges to the Latrobe River, now exercised by the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, under the Water Pollution Control Authority.

14.47. The provisions of section 65 of the Latrobe Valley Act 1958, enabling a person to enter into an agreement with the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board to discharge waste into the Latrobe River, should be repealed on the coming into operation of the permit system.

14.48. Powers similar to those available under section 400 of the Health Act 1958 should be granted to the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board, Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Trust, Dandenong Valley Authority and Fisheries and Wildlife Branch, to enable such Authorities to enforce the conditions attaching to permits issued for the discharge of trade wastes as if such Authority were the issuing Authority.

POLLUTION BY SALTS.

15.1. During the Committee's investigations witnesses submitted that there is a need for greater controls to be exercised over drainage practices in areas where salt concentrations in the soil affect the quality of drainage water returned to sources of water supply.

15.2. The World Health Organization Committee <sup>(1)</sup> referred to the problems of salt pollution associated with irrigation practices as follows :—

“ Without question, the world cannot be supplied with the food and raw materials it needs without large-scale irrigation. But irrigation can be a major cause of water pollution, and water pollution in turn can greatly affect the productivity of irrigated land.

All natural water contains inorganic salts, particularly chlorides, the concentration of which depends on the history of the water after it has fallen as rain. As the irrigation water evaporates in the field, the salts concentrate in the wet soil. If they were allowed to accumulate, fertility would diminish and eventually the land would become barren. They must therefore be washed away. If this is done by heavy subsequent rainfall, little harm may result, because the salt will be diluted again. But if the salts are removed by using excess irrigation water, the concentration of salt in the drainage, which often goes back to the river, may be far greater than it originally was. The drainage will also carry away salts applied to the land as fertilizers, for example, sulfate from ammonium sulfate. The consequence will be an increase in the salinity of the raw river water. Irrigation may therefore itself produce a pollution problem—pollution, furthermore, of a type that cannot be removed by conventional processes. Failure to provide adequate drainage for irrigation projects may also gradually raise the salinity of underlying ground waters.”

15.3. Mr. W. P. Dunk, Chief Irrigation Officer of the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, advised the Committee that the aim should be to keep the salt levels in rivers at less than 500 parts per million, although this level was not always possible in certain streams in Western Victoria.

He considered that surface drainage outfalls from the Goulburn–Murray irrigation system would rarely exceed 300 p.p.m., and with the exception of the Barr Creek and Tyntynder Flats drainage systems, would cause no significant increase in the salinity level of the River Murray.

(1) W.H.O. Tech. Report Series No. 318.

As river systems are used both for carrying away drainage water and as a source of water supply, it was submitted that strict controls should be administered to provide adequate protection of water quality.

15.4. Investigations have shown that there are approximately 70,000 acres of salt-affected land in the Kerang, Cohuna, Pyramid Hill and Swan Hill irrigation areas and experiments to reclaim this land by pumping sub-surface water into surface drainage systems have been instituted in these areas.

Mr. Dunk submitted that this sub-surface water was highly saline and contained around 30,000 p.p.m., of salts. He contended that even if a relatively small number of pumps were brought into operation the River Murray in the vicinity of Swan Hill could be rendered useless as a source of water supply for irrigation.

15.5. The Committee visited the Torrumbarry and Swan Hill Irrigation areas and received evidence on the problems of obtaining a suitable quality of water for irrigation as a result of highly saline drainage water being directed to the sources of water supply and of the lack of an alternative method of disposal for such drainage water.

As a means of reconciling the requirements of providing a suitable quality of water for use in irrigation and enabling the disposal of drainage water, the following solutions were offered by witnesses :—

- (a) Water required for irrigation and town supplies should be diverted from the river at a point where salt pollution is not a problem. This would allow the downstream sections of the river to be utilized as a drainage outlet ;
- (b) A separate drainage system should be constructed to divert drainage water containing high salt concentrations to lands suitable for use as evaporating basins and acquired for the purpose.

15.6. Witnesses suggested that irrigation practices operating within the Murray Valley had contributed to the deterioration of land in the Mid-Murray irrigation areas and, that due to the geological structure of aquifers within the region, irrigators as far away as 40 miles were contributing to underground water pressure in such aquifers, a cause of salt build-up in soils.

15.7. It was suggested to the Committee that, if the practice of pumping sub-surface water was prohibited, the consequences of such action may result in an increase in area of the salt-affected lands with a corresponding increase in salinity of surface drainage water causing intolerable salt concentrations to build up in the River Murray.

15.8. The Committee was advised that any measures instituted to control the quality of drainage water entering the River Murray can only partially improve the water quality of the river unless similar restrictions apply to water entering the river from tributaries under the control of the State of New South Wales.

Sir Percy Byrnes, M.L.C., in commenting on this aspect, said—

“It is reasonable to say that any study of drainage problems in Victoria which does not take cognizance of similar problems in the Riverina Districts adjacent to the Murray, can only be incomplete.”

15.9. The Committee was informed that the problem of saline water entering the River Murray was under investigation by the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission and the River Murray Commission. However, it was suggested that the Committee should recommend that the matter be regarded as urgent and considered on a national and interstate basis.

15.10. An amendment in 1967 to the Water Act 1958 enabled the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission to prescribe standards of quality for saline matter which may be discharged into works of the Commission or any watercourse.

15.11. A by-law made under these provisions in February, 1968, prohibits the discharge of sub-surface water containing more than 1,000 p.p.m., of dissolved solids unless special permission is granted and provides for a penalty of $100 for contravention of the by-law or $40 per day if such offence continues.

Although the Committee has received no evidence on the recent application of these provisions, it would appear that a measure of control now exists over the discharge of highly saline drainage water.

15.12. The Committee considers that the reclamation of salt-affected land is desirable and its implementation should lessen the dangers of salt contaminated surface drainage water from polluting sources of water supply. However the practices adopted in pumping highly saline waters into surface drainage systems, which ultimately discharge to sources of water supply for irrigation, appear to the Committee to be shortsighted and cannot be justified in view of the existing water quality problem of the River Murray.

Although the Committee inspected areas which appeared suitable for use as storage and evaporating basins for saline drainage waters from the Mid-Murray Irrigation areas, the Committee considered that the feasibility of the proposals submitted to overcome the problems of salt pollution of water supplies within the area generally, is not a matter to be determined by it.

Since the receipt of evidence at Swan Hill, salt-affected drainage water entering the River Murray from the Barr Creek has, through works of the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, been diverted to an evaporating basin.

15.13. The Committee recommends that the consideration of controls necessary to prevent the contamination of waterways by saline drainage water should be a function of the proposed Water Pollution Control Authority.

15.14. It is also recommended that the Government seek the participation of the New South Wales Authorities in the application of controls over the discharge of saline drainage water which may impair the quality of water supplied from the River Murray.

POLLUTION BY PESTICIDES AND WEEDICIDES.

16.1. The dangers of pollution of water as a result of the use of pesticides and weedicides was adverted to by the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission and the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch.

16.2. Mr. Dunk, Chief Irrigation Officer, State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, suggested that although the presence of pesticides and weedicides in waterways used in the supply of water for irrigation is not a matter of practical concern at present, the situation could be expected to deteriorate in the future.

It was submitted that although pollution levels have been set with regard to the more important chemicals through the agency of the inter-departmental Committee on pesticides, legislative powers in the form of controls should vest in the Commission and other appropriate Authorities.

16.3. Mr. T. S. Pearce, Senior Research Officer of the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch, in commenting on the development and use of pesticides and the effects on aquatic life, said—

“Toxic substances have been used for many years for agricultural pest control, and significant mortality has occurred on numerous occasions when pest control chemicals have been introduced directly or indirectly into streams containing fish. Prior to the Second World War, such mortalities were caused by copper salts, arsenic, rotenone and derris.

Since 1945 large numbers of synthetic organic compounds have been developed and have been used on an ever increasing scale. Some of these compounds are, unfortunately, extremely toxic to fish and fish food, namely the aquatic invertebrates such as insects, insect larvae, crustaceans and molluscs, and under ordinary casual methods of use, direct and indirect contamination of streams frequently occurs.”

16.4. The origin of pesticides contaminating waterways, the materials causing contamination, and the frequency and severity of fish kills were considered to be difficult to determine accurately. One positive link was established in relation to the fish kill in the Watts River at Healesville referred to earlier in this Report (paragraph 5.4.).

16.5. The Committee was advised that a proposed revision of the Fisheries Act has been prepared to give effect to the recommendations of the Pesticides Committee (1). The Fisheries and Wildlife Branch considered however, that, as the determination of standards of quality for effluents and receiving waters affected a number of other administrative bodies, it would be desirable for general principles to be incorporated in legislation applying to all such bodies.

16.6. The Committee recommends that it should be a function of the proposed Water Pollution Control Authority to consider any effects of water pollution caused through the use of pesticides and weedicides and, if necessary, to formulate standards to regulate the use of such materials in and adjacent to inland and coastal waters.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS.

Legislation.

1. A new statute should be enacted for the objective of minimizing and controlling the pollution of water and to enable Authorities to exercise uniform powers in administering water pollution controls.

2. The proposed statute, to have State-wide application, should—

- (a) provide for the appointment of a Water Pollution Control Authority to administer the Act and co-ordinate the activities of enforcement Authorities ;
- (b) prohibit any person from causing or permitting any matter to enter any inland or coastal waters or any drain or channel which directly or indirectly discharges to such waters, unless such matter conforms to a standard of purity prescribed under the Act ;

(1) Pesticides—Report of the Committee of Inquiry, 1966.

- (c) require Authorities at present exercising controls over drains, channels, inland and coastal waters to enforce the provisions of the proposed statute ;
- (d) provide for the Water Pollution Control Authority to fix standards of quality for any matter acceptable for discharge into inland or coastal waters, drains or channels ;
- (e) repeal the provisions of existing Acts enabling Authorities to fix standards of quality for matter discharged to receiving waters and make provision for the adoption by such Authorities of standards specified by the Water Pollution Control Authority ;
- (f) make provision for the issue of permits by the proposed Water Pollution Control Authority to persons discharging trade wastes and consequentially repeal the provisions of section 82 of the Health Act 1958 and sub-sections (4) to (6) of section 65 of the Latrobe Valley Act 1958.

Statutory Authority.

3. There should be appointed a Water Pollution Control Authority, responsible to the Minister of Health, and representative of the Commission of Public Health, the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works, Fisheries and Wildlife conservation, Ports and Harbors Authorities, and non-metropolitan urban interests.

4. The functions of the Water Pollution Control Authority should be—
- to administer the provisions of the proposed Act and any regulations made under the Act ;
  - to carry out, in conjunction with Authorities administering inland and coastal waters, surveys and investigations as to the causes, nature and extent of pollution in such waters ;
  - to fix standards of quality for the acceptance of any matter into receiving waters ;
  - to formulate regulations to prevent or minimize water pollution ;
  - to co-ordinate the activities of Authorities exercising water pollution controls ;
  - to specify methods to be adopted by Authorities in sampling and testing water ;
  - to compile and publish information on methods of treatment of wastes and to organize and encourage research into methods of preventing water pollution ;
  - to issue permits and specify conditions under which a person may discharge trade wastes to inland or coastal waters or to drains or channels which directly or indirectly discharge to such waters.

Domestic Sullage.

5. A restricted right should be available to occupiers of a dwelling-house to discharge domestic sullage to adjoining drainage works or easements provided for the purpose of carrying off surface waters, where no sewer is available for the acceptance of domestic sullage.

6. A research programme should be instituted to determine the effects on the public health resulting from the discharge of domestic sullage to stormwater drainage systems.

7. The Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Act 1958, the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Act 1958, and the Sewerage Districts Act 1958, should be amended to—

- (a) require the owner of a dwelling-house to make the connexion of the dwelling to the sewer provided by an Authority within a specified period ;
- (b) require Sewerage Authorities to establish and maintain a separate fund to be applied towards assisting owners to make sewerage connexions within the specified period.

8. The Uniform Building Regulations should be amended to make compulsory the fitting of grease traps where domestic sullage is proposed to be discharged to a drain, street channel or easement provided for the purpose of draining surface waters.

Septic Tank Effluents.

9. The Health Act 1958 and the Septic Tank Regulations 1932 should be amended to require—

- (a) that an inspection of a septic tank system be undertaken by the administering Authority—
  - at least once in every four years in the case of a household septic tank system which is designed to absorb the effluent on the property ; or
  - at least once in each year for any other system in operation ;
- (b) that Municipal Councils report each year to the Commission of Public Health on the number of inspections of septic tank systems made by Council, the number of systems found to be defective, and the number of defective systems remedied in accordance with notices issued by the Council.

10. Statutory provision should be made to—
- (a) require the Commission of Public Health to inspect the treatment works of a Sewerage Authority at least once in every six months ;
  - (b) enable the Commission of Public Health to formulate regulations concerning the treatment and disposal of wastes by Sewerage Authorities ;
  - (c) require a Sewerage Authority to comply with any direction of the Commission concerning the treatment and disposal of wastes.

Trade Wastes.

11. No Authority or person should be permitted to discharge any trade wastes into any inland or coastal waters or into any system of drains or channels which may convey such wastes either directly or indirectly into such waters unless such Authority or person has applied for and received a permit to discharge such wastes.

12. The proposed Water Pollution Control Authority should be required to issue permits and specify conditions for discharge of trade wastes in lieu of the existing approval and agreement system administered by the Commission of Public Health and the Latrobe Valley Water and Sewerage Board.

13. A right of appeal to the Governor-in-Council should exist where the Water Pollution Control Authority refuses to issue a permit to discharge trade wastes or where the conditions attaching to a permit are considered by the applicant to be unreasonable.

14. Powers of entry and inspection of premises from which trade wastes are discharged should be granted to certain Authorities to enable adequate enforcement of conditions attaching to a permit.

Pollution by Salts.

15. It should be a function of the Water Pollution Control Authority to fix standards for the acceptance of saline water to drains, channels, and inland waters.

16. The Government should seek the participation of the New South Wales Authorities in the application of controls over the discharge of saline drainage water which may impair the quality of water supplied from the River Murray.

Pollution by Pesticides and Weedicides.

17. It should be a function of the proposed Water Pollution Control Authority to consider any effects of water pollution caused through the use of pesticides and weedicides and, if necessary, to formulate standards to regulate the use of such materials in and adjacent to inland and coastal waters.

VICTORIA - MINUTES OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEG. COUNCIL, SESSION 1968 - 69

THE HON.
THE
